UNIFORMITY IN EXPENSE LIMITS FOR CAMPAIGN

Senator Sheppard To Urge Revision On Outlays Allowed

WOULD APPLY TO RACES FOR SENATE

Election Laws In The Various States Widely Differ

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Senator Sheppard (D-Texas) said today he would urge congress to revise and broaden the corrupt practices act to fix a uniform limit of expenditures in senatorial campaigns.

Expenditures in senatorial primaries, unregulated by congress since the supreme court decision in the Newberry case in 1924, now range from the legal allowance of $3,000 in Oklahoma to unlimited amounts in at least 11 states.

Sheppard said a study of state expenditure laws, completed by the campaign expenditures committee of which he is chairman, had convinced him of the need of uniform legislation in this field.

As the federal corrupt practices act now stands, a senatorial nominee may spend up to $25,000 in his general election campaign.

But the supreme court held primary elections were state matters, and federal control of primary expenditures was forbidden.

New Jersey permits a senatorial nominee to spend $50,000 in the general election despite the $25,000 federal limitation, Sheppard pointed out. He instructed committee aides to look into the law on this point.

The committee's survey showed Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Maine, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont and Washington had no state laws governing senatorial primary expenditures, the senator reported.

In addition, the committee found state election laws in Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, New York and Ohio might not be applicable to senatorial campaign expenditures.

Fix Definite Amounts

In addition to New Jersey and Oklahoma, 13 other states fix definite amounts that may be spent by senatorial candidates. They are Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Massachusettes, Mississippi, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Tennesee, Texas, Utah and Wisconsin. New Jersey's limit of $50,000 for the primary and $50,000 for the general election is the highest in the list. Oklahoma has a limit of $3,000 on primary expenditures and Utah $4,000 for both elections.

In 11 states expenditures are limited to a percentage of a year's salary as senator. Arkansas and California permit a candidate to spend a full year's pay, or $10,000, in his campaign. Iowa fixes the limit at a half year's salary in the primary and the same amount in the general election.

In South Dakota, the total for both elections is limited to half year's salary, while in Connecticut the limit is one third.. Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon and Wyoming limit expenditures to from 10 to 20 per cent of a year's pay for each race.

In Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri and Virginia the candidate's expenditures are restricted by complicated systems based on the votes cast—in most cases—for the nominee for governor in the last preceding election. West Virginia puts the limit at $75 per county.

GOOD WILL VISIT TO GREEN RIDGE

There was a large crowd of Sedalians in attendance at the good-will meeting and ice cream social at Green Ridge Friday night, sponsored by the retail merchants committee of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

Charles Botz, very capably handled the loud speaker, and introduced guests as well as entertained the visitors with many witty remarks. Harmonica music by a resident of Green Ridge was enjoyed also.

CAPTAINCY FOR J. C. M'LAUGHLIN IS ANNOUNCED

Makes Four of Such Rank In Field Artillery Here

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The war department has announced recognition of the rank of a Missouri National Guard officer as valid in the National Guard of the United States.

The recognition, which followed fitness tests by boards of regular army and National Guard officers, gave those recognized the dual status of commissioned officers in the military force of their state and of officers of the United States National Guard.

The Missouri officer recognized was Captain John C. McLaughlin, 312 West Sixth street, Sedalia, intelligence, plans and training officer, 128th F. A.

Captain McLaughlin

With the appointment of Captain "Jack" McLaughlin, gives to Sedalia four Captains recognized in the National Guard of the United States.

They are: Captain James Norlin, who for several years has been executive officer of the staff of the Second Battalion of the 128th Field Artillery Missouri National Guards; Captain Eugene Hansman, commander of Battery F., of the 128th Field Artillery: Captain Harry O. Berry, commander of Headquarters Battery of the 128th; and Captain McLaughlin.

LEGIONNAIRES OFF TO CONVENTION

Members of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, opened their drive for the 1939 Legion convention at the meeting being held at Cape Girardeau this week.

Saturday morning the Legionnaires established headquarters there and erected banners with the legend "Sedalia Wants You In 1939" in the hotel housing the Legion convention headquarters.

Among the members of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion who will attend the convention over the holidays are: Gene Maupin, Peter T. O'Brien, past state commander, Vernon Glenn, Stanton Hudson, Ray Hunt, Al Blaschke, Evans Burrowes, Arthur Brill and R. Q. Henderson.

Mrs. L. A. Bailey, Mrs. E. W. Richardson and Mrs. L. L. Jones will represent the Legion auxiliary.

Several members of the Clay T. Henderson post also plan to attend.

CHILD KILLED AS AUTO PLUNGES INTO RAVINE

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Lodema Scherer, 2, was killed today when the auto in which she was riding with her father plunged into a 20-foot ravine on U. S. Highway 24 north of Independence.

The father, Ted Scherer, was dangerously injured. His wife and another child were treated for shock and cuts. The baby's body was thrown 20 feet from the car.

COMMITTEE TO GIVE SUPPORT TO NOMINEES

Not "Go Along" With President If He Aids G. O. P. Liberals

DECLARATION BY GROUP SECRETARY

Roosevelt Is To Speak Against Tydings In Maryland

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The Democratic congressional campaign committee served notice today it would not go along with President Roosevelt if he campaigned this fall for the election of "liberal" Republicans over anti-New Deal Democrats.

In a statement issued within 24 hours after the President had told a press conference a "good liberal" running on the Republican ticket would serve the country better than a conservative Democrat, Victor Harding, secretary of the committee, declared:

"The Democratic National Congressional Campaign Committee has taken and will take no part in any primary or nominating convention. As soon as a candidate is nominated for representative in congress this committee considers him to be the choice of the Democratic voters of the particular district involved and the committee will do everything in its power to assist in the campaign to secure his election.

The committee is concerned only with campaigns for election to the house of representatives. Its chairman is Rep. Patrick H. Drewry of Virginia.

Cause for Speculation

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out at his press conference yesterday he was talking about principles and not specific candidates, but his statement "the good of the country rises above party" caused speculation he might later give aid to particular Republicans he considered "liberal."

In virtual seclusion at the White House today, the President prepared for a week-end journey into Maryland, where he is trying to unseat Democratic Senator Millard E. Tydings. Tydings is opposed for the Democratic senatorial nomination by Rep. David J. Lewis.

Mr. Roosevelt worked on a major address to be delivered Monday afternoon on the isolated Peninsula known as Maryland's eastern shore.

Addressed to a nation-wide audience from the little town of Denton, the speech will be preceded by extemporaneous talks at several other Maryland points.

The White House announced Senator F. Ryan Duffy (D.-Wis.), an administration supporter, would accompany the President on the trip into Marylond. Duffy faces progressive party opposition in the November election and Senator La Follette, who often in the past has been an administration ally, has announced he would support the progressive party nominee.

Mr. Roosevelt will be the first president to visit Denton, a rural town of about 1,600, since Andrew Jackson.

On the eve of the President's departure, Mayor William E. Ward of Crisfield declared there would be no official reception for the chief executive when he arrives there because "Mr. Roosevelt is coming to the eastern shore as a politician."

"If Mr. Roosevelt was coming to Crisfield as President of the United States, I would be only too glad to meet him and extend the hospitality of the city due the occupant of that great office," said the mayor, a Republican elected last January.

"But Mr. Roosevelt is coming to the eastern shore as a politician and so I am not going to pay any attention to him."

CORRIGAN NO. 1 GUEST AT THE AIR RACES

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3.—Douglas Corrigan, trans-Atlantic flyer, came to Cleveland as No. 1 guest of the national air races today and heard the cheers of crowds estimated by police at 85,000.

The shy Corrigan appeared relieved when four scantily clad beauty contest winners who greeted him at the airport disappeared. Then he was besieged by autograph seekers.

LEDGER VEAZY, CONVICT, ESCAPES

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 3.—Ledger Veazy, a Missouri prison convict on an outside detail jumped off a prison truck and escaped tonight in St. Charles, prison officials here were informed.

Details of the escape were not available. Veazy was serving a 20-year sentenced for first degree robbery from Pettis county.

Veazy and a William Madden were charged jointly with the holdup and robbing of O. A. Kowertz of Warsaw, Mo., on October 9, 1934. The two were apprehended in Kilgore, Texas, after they had left a string of worthless checks flowing through Oklahoma and Texas.

Both waived extradition to the Missouri authorities, Sheriff W. L. Marlin, then Chief of Police of Sedalia, and then Sheriff W. W. Bolton. The two officers accompanied by the then Mayor O. B. Poundstone, returned Veazy and Madden to Sedalia.

The men made confessions to the local officers on their return to Missouri, and soon appeared in the Pettis County Circuit Court and pleaded guilty, both men accepting twenty years terms.

Kowertz picked Veazy and Madden up near KaKnsas City as hitch-hikers, and after he had headed south on highway 65, the two held Kowertz up, made him drive into a small road off the highway and there robbed him of his money and car.

WALTHER LEAGUE HAS 250 AT A BANQUET SESSION

Convention Opens With Interesting Program On Saturday

After a very hearty welcome by Mayor Julian H. Bagby and Marvin Kueck of the Sedalia Walther League, at the first session of the twenty-second annual convention of the Missouri District Walther League, those in attendance at the convention felt the hospitality of Sedalia.

The sessions being held at the Smith-Cotton High School were opened at 10:30 a. m. by William Pfaff, of St. Louis, president of the Missouri District Walther League. About one hundred persons attended the opening session and about two hundred and fifty are expected at Sunday's sessions. The Christian Knowledge and Christian Service departments presented various phases of their work during the morning session, as well as the second session which opened at 1:30 p. m.

H. O. Klein is present at the sessions as a representative of the International Walther League, he being chairman of the International Walther League executive board.

Banquet at Park Hall

The day's activities were brought to a close with an inspiring banquet held at the convention Hall in Liberty Park attended by approximately two hundred fifty leaguers. Hugo Kranz, of Kansas City, was toastmaster, while Rev. Arthur Meyer, of Houston, Texas, addressed the group. The sessions will be continued through Monday.

Inspirational services will be held this morning at 10:30 a. m. at the St. Paul's Lutheran church on Broadway and Massachusetts. The speaker will be Rev. Walter G. Schwehn, of Hannibal, Missouri, speaking on "The Call to Heroic Christian discipleship."

All are invited to the Choral Union Concert to be held at the Smith-Cotton High School tonight at 8:00 p. m. The chorus is directed by Professor H. H. Mueller, of Concordia, Missouri. Vocal and instrumental solos will be included.

The Walther League is an organization of young people within the Lutheran Church, operating under a planned youth program.

To Discuss Farm Situation

ST. PAUL, Sept. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today invited Governor Elmer Benson of Minnesota to visit him at Hyde Park, N. Y., Tuesday for a discussion of the farm situation in the middle west growing out of low farm prices. The governor will leave Monday, probably by plane.

CAMERA CLICKS AND PICTURES BURGLAR

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Sept. 3—A camera rigged up in a cabinet in a home here snapped a picture of a burglar last night as he opened a drawer and contacted two wires. Police arrested Thomas Freeman, 17, and charged him with robbery. The home had been burglarized nine times recently.

ORIENTATION DAY AT SMITH-COTTON

Orientation day, or a day for the students entering Smith-Cotton high school for the first time to visit the class rooms and get their bearings, was held Friday. The newcomers, most of whom were from rural schools in the country, or the parochial schools in Sedalia, assembled in the auditorium at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and received instructions how to find their class rooms, meet in the assemblies, and proceed from one class room to the other.

Older students, or those who had previously been in school, took the place of regular instructors in the class rooms, and the new students went through a regular schedule. The girls and boys substituting for the teachers were: Llewellyn Gould, Joan Waddell Mary Louise Zink, Mary Lu Reid, Virginia Scruton, Patty Quinn, Hazel Colvin, Ruth Franklin, Winifred Halter, Maurine Ridgeway, Jane Bast, Shirley Green, Howard DeWolf, Henrietta Lamm, Lorraine Morgan, Norma Jean Byram, Genevieve Stanley, Billy Pulliam and Thelma Whittle.

Miss Patricia Poundstone, president of the senior student council for the 1938-39 school year, was in charge of a program in the auditorium, part of orientation day exercises.

Miss Poundstone, on behalf of the students welcomed the new students, and E. G. Kennedy, principal, expressed a welcome on behalf of the faculty. Mr. Kennedy then presented Miss Edna Snell, student council sponsor; Miss Poundstone, senior council president; Harold Barrick, senior council vice-president; James Anderson, junior council vice-president.

Miss Poundstone explained the handbook and its uses, Harold Barrick told of the school organizations and clubs and Buddy Agniel spoke on student manners.

ASSIGNMENTS TO HOME ROOMS AT S-C HIGH SCHOOL

Public and Parochial School To Open On Tuesday, Sept. 6

The public and parochial schools of Sedalia will open Tuesday morning for the 1938-39 school year. Assignments will be given and the pupils given an opportunity to secure their books and supplies preparatory to starting classes Wednesday morning.

At the high school the bell will ring Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock, and students will go directly to their home rooms, which are as follows:

NURSERY PLAY EQUIPMENT FIXED

The children of the Melita Day Nursery have been made very happy by the repairing and reconditioning of the playground equipment, which was done through the thoughtfulness of the under-privileged committee of the Kiwanis club.

The swings, teeter-totter, slide, sand pile, merry-go-round, and other devices have all be reconditioned until they are just like new, and when they were brought back to the nursery from work shops the children could hardly stay off long enough for them to be put into place.

Arthur Hoffman donated varnish for the slide, Guy Callender arranged for some metal work to be done, and the actual repair work was done by C. E. Van Horn.

Members of this under-privileged committee are, I. H. Reed, chairman, W. R. Courtney, Dr. Reinhold Fischer, Edward P. Mullaley and Rev. O. J. Rumpf.

WOMAN TAKES BENDIX TROPHY AND $12,500 CASH

Jacqueline Cochran To Air Races at 249.774 Miles An Hour

NOSES OUT TEN MEN IN THE RACE

Frank Fuller, Second In Dash Takes $5,000 Prize Money

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3.—Red-haired Jacqueline Cochran not only won the eighth Bendix trophy race today to triumph over ten experienced male pilots, but set a new trans-continental air record for women the National Aeronautic Association announced.

Flying from Burbank, Calif., to Bendix, N. J., in 10 hours, seven minutes and 10 seconds, Miss Cochran clipped nearly three and a half hours from the former record set by Laura Ingalls Sept. 12, 1935.

Miss Ingalls' record on a flight from Burbank to Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., was made in 13 hours, 34 minutes and five seconds.

Miss Cochran, 27, wife of financier Floyd B. Odlum and an orphan who started to work at 11, shoved her silvery plane across the storm-dotted country at 246 miles an hour to take down $12,500 in prize money in the Bendix race.

Fought Thunderstorms

She fought thunder storms and icing conditions as she sped at a height of 16,000 to 22,000 feet from Burbank, Calif., to Cleveland, paused to greet her husband and hear the cheers of thousands at the national air races, and sped on over Bendix, N. J.

It was a triumph the slight young woman had earned, other pilots agreed. She had finished third in last year's Bendix, and in the 1935 race she had been forced down at Kingman, Ariz.

She flew alone, with tomato juice her only nourishment on the 10-hour, 2,446-mile grind in a 1,200-horsepower Seversky plane equipped with twin Wasp motors.

Her plane carried the racing number "13."

In Cleveland her first concern was:

"Where's my husband?"

He gave her an unofficial greeting much warmer than the official.

She whipped the closest of her men rivals, Frank Fuller, into Cleveland by 23 minutes to win $11,500 and become the second woman to win the cross-country event.

Miss Cochran reached here with an elapsed time of eight hours., ten minutes and three seconds—16 minutes slower than the Bendix record posted last year by Fuller, the San Francisco millionaire sportsman.

She averaged 249.774 miles an hour for the distance compared with the 238.604 posted today by Fuller, whose second place was good for $5,000.

Picks Up Added $1,000

Then Miss Cochran, after talking with Odlum briefly, continued on to Bendix to pick up another $1,000 for the fastest time between Burbank and Bendix.

She flew over Bendix at 3:34 p. m. (C. S. T.), and continued on to Floyd Bennett airport, New York, to land. Bendix timers gave her elapsed time for the transcontinental test, including the 19 minutes she was grounded at Cleveland in addition to the 15 minutes allowed all contestants, as 10:07:10.

She had left Burbank at 5:13 a. m. (C. S. T.)

"The weather was swell until I saw the sun this morning," she said as she left her plane at Floyd Bennett. "Then I began running into bad weather, thunder storms and icing conditions. The last part of the flight—from Cleveland to New York—was not so good."

Fuller reached Bendix at 4:46 p. m., for an elapsed time of 10 hours, 21 minutes, 30.3 seconds. He had stopped at Wichita, Kas., as well as Cleveland for refueling.

Officials at Bendix said Fuller's average speed cross-country was 241.415.

The Cleveland-Bendix leg of the race was optional, and only Miss Cochran and Fuller flew it. A prize of $5,000, offered for a new Bendix transcontinental rec-

SEDALIA BOY OF TEN IS MISSING FROM HIS HOME

Tommy Selville Sought By Relatives, Police and Patrol

"Tommy" Selville, 10 years old, son of William Selville, 226 South Kentucky avenue was reported to the police missing from his home since 8 o'clock Friday morning, and residents in the vicinity of the Sedalia Water Works pumping station are requested to take particular notice to any boy about that age who might be passing, or plying along the road.

The boy it was believed left his father's home sometime between 8 and 10 o'clock Friday morning, after his older brother "Buddy" had gone with his scoutmaster to Lake Tebo to take a swimming test. Because he was told he could not go at that time, it is believed the boy became restless and walked away from home.

Tommy Selville

His older sister had been visiting with another sister and the boy's mother in Richmond, Mo., for several days and she talked of her visit before the child, and it is believed by the father the boy might have headed for Richmond to visit with his sister and mother.

However, others called in on the case became alarmed when it was learned he had been accustomed to going to the dam on Flat Creek with his older brother to swim and wade in the creek. Tommy could not swim but would wade in the shallow water.

No Trace Found

It was believed the boy because he could not go with his brother to Tebo, had gone to Flat-Creek and might have gone swimming alone, but an investigation of the location by Chief of Police John J. O.'Brien and two officers, Herman Fischer and Clarence Harrell, resulted in finding no trace of the boy or his clothing.

Late Saturday night Officers Emmett O'Brien and Don Mahoney, received a call two boys were riding into town on a bicycle on the Ingram Avenue road, drove out on the road and met the two boys. One was Eugene "Red" Rasa and the other Young "Dutch" Hawley. They were questioned if they had seen the boy.

The Rasa boy recalled meeting the boy about 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon playing on the Missouri Pacific Warsaw Bronch road bridge leading from Kentucky avenue to the Water Works. Rasa told the police the boy was on top of the bridge and he called to him he should come away from there and go home, and the boy answered he was just playing and wouldn't get hurt.. He said he tried to talk the boy into coming on into town but he refused.

That is the last known person to have seen the boy since he disappeared from him home.

Tommy is ten years old, about four feet two or three inches tall, weighs about fifty to sixty pounds, blonde hair, and is wearing overalls and polo shirt of brown with yellow stripes. He was barefooted.

He attended Washington and Broadway schools

The State Highway Patrol also has been notified to be on the lookout for the boy and a statewide broadcast was made for him early Saturday morning.

NO SOLUTION OF AUTONOMY THUS FAR IS REACHED

Hitler Seems To Want More "Elasticity" In Henlein Program

NAZI ON MARCH FOR BIG CONGRESS

To Rally Around Chancellor For Eight Days At Nurmburg

BERLIN, Sept. 3. — Various persons in touch with Adolf Hitler's Bavarian mountain retreat expressed belief tonight the Reichsfuehrer had advised Konrad Henlein "to interpret more elastically" the Sudeten German autonomy demands on the Czechoslovak government.

Broadly, however, the substance of Henlein's eight-point program for the 3,500,000 Germanic minority still represented what it was believed Hitler considered the minimum demands on Praha.

This was taken to be the net outcome of the Sudeten German party leader's conferences yesterday and Thursday with Hitler at Berghof, the Reichsfuehrer's residence in the mountains above Berchtesgaden.

These efforts to find a meeting ground between the disputants were well-timed. Germany will be so busy at the Nurnberg Nazi party congress, opening Monday, a concrete solution of the problem necessarily must take a back seat so far as Hitler is concerned.

What changes might be involved in greater elasticity of the Henlein program or what, if any, common ground for negotiation might be found as a result of Henlein's visit with Hitler were not disclosed.

However, subsequent interpretations of the demands laid down April 24 before a congress of the Sudeten German party—interpretations by Henlein or his deputies—have indicated the eight points contain a certain flexibility.

Desires Early Action

Hitler, who has interested himself in "protection" of the minority, was reported especially angered over a suggestion for a three-month truce after which bargaining for political posts and compromise on the divergent programs of the disputants would be resumed.

What Hitler seemed to want was definite action quickly.

When Henlein resumes negotiations at Praha he will—if he follows what were regarded as Hitler's instructions—restate, define and interpret the eight-point program as "elastically adapted to Czech concessions in so far as they are clearly visible but without yielding any principle," said one informed commentator.

In Praha itself numerous Sudeten German leaders were urging a direct request be sent to Germany to aid in the autonomy dispute.

Suggest Petitions

One suggestion being discussed in the Sudeten communities was that the appeal be in the form of a petition to be submitted to Germany. There were unestab-

WAR CLOUDS DISCLOSE A TOUCH OF SILVER

There is one curious by-product of the current war scare which—years hence, when the scare has died down—will be recognized as something pretty valuable. That is the tremendous impetus which the scare has given the development of aviation.

A world which looks forward to war sees the airplane principally as a weapon. So, as with all other weapons, it strives frantically to improve it.

As a weapon, the airplane has most dreadful possibilities. If nothing comes of this vast activity except increased possibilities for destruction, the world is in a bad case indeed.

But in the long run the airplane is only secondarily a weapon. It is the fastest means of transportation mankind has yet devised, and over the years its usefulness should far outweigh its destructiveness. And because of the present war-scare, progress in airplane design and construction is going forward these days very much faster than would otherwise be possible.

* * *

We sometimes forget how completely our modern world is built around the idea of fast transportation and speedy communications. The world economy of today may be a disjointed and chaotic thing, but it works to the extent that it does work only because it is served by a network of rapid carriers.

In America, for instance, upwards of 300,000,000 letters are carried annually by air. Some 2,600,000 people travel by air each year. More than 10,000 planes are kept busy on commercial jobs, carrying mail, people, and express across the country. If the railroad and the automobile played a major role in welding our country into a unit, the airplane is beginning to occupy an equally important place.

* * *

All of this means solidarity, community of interest, understanding. It also means wider markets, a greater chance for commercial and industrial expansion, a freer and farther flow of trade.

And so, ultimately, these very trying days which we are living through now will give us an extremely useful by-product. It may be perfectly true that what we get will hardly be worth the danger that is afflicting world civilization. But it is at least comforting to reflect that out of today's nervous, anxious confusion there will come something, at least, that will be of permanent value to the race.

'—IN YOUR OWN WORDS'

"Foreign office spokesmen" and statesmen who speak under their own names must frequently feel like teachers asking of their class, "Now what do you get out of this passage?"

The notion is suggested by the responses to the recent talk by Sir John Simon, Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, on the situation in Europe. Sir John observed in effect that the "case of Czechoslovakia" needed to be handled with care, and expressed the fear that any local quarrel that might arise out of it might get out of hand.

He referred in passing to the existence of un-named countries with "a system of government very different from ours," and deplored the attitude that friendship with them was impossible.

The extreme ends of the Rome-Berlin axis failed to respond in unison. Two headlines in one American newspaper the next day ran: "Germans Belittle Simon's Address," and "Rome Comforted by Simon Speech." Spokesmen of the Reich were described as disappointed and upset. Spokesmen in Rome felt gratified at what they interpreted as a friendly and conciliatory gesture toward Germany.

Of course, there are two sides to the thing. Audiences at statesmen's speeches probably feel on occasion like students who have been asked by the teacher to interpret passages which the author seemed to have written out of both sides of his mouth.

EATS AND VOTES

Word arrives that a massive work is to be published in the near future on the subject of group eating in America.

If the book isn't going to have a little essay on the causes and effects of mixing food with politics, it ought to.

Consider, for instance, the effect of the political banquet or eat-match on (a) the public at large, and (b) the diners.

How many votes have been won by the simple procedure of dining out-doors on barbecued pig, corn-on-the-cob, or baked clams will never be known. For no particular reason the man who does one or the other in the proper sections of the country acquires a kind of good-guy air. How many votes have been lost by the procedure of sitting down to terrapin, squab, truffles and champagne will also never be known.

And consider, friends, how different the political scene might be were it not for the plain, run-of-the-mine, every-day kind of banquet all politicians find themselves at throughout every campaign period. What feuds might not have arisen, what idiocies not performed, what senseless challenges not hurled and colossal blunders not made if it had not been for long-term diets of shellacked chicken-legs, cottony mashed potatoes, olive-drab peas, and coffee with the chill taken off.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

TRADE MARK — REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — No one can safely predict today the outcome of the dramatic fight between John L. Lewis and Homer Martin for control of the United Auto Workers. Lewis is a veteran, resourceful battler, and many things can happen before the curtain rings down on the struggle.

But one thing is certain: Young Martin will be no push-over. No one is more acutely aware of this than Lewis. Whatever else he may think about Martin—and it's plenty—Lewis is not taking him lightly. He is paying Martin the unexpressed compliment of fighting him with every available resource.

That is very sound strategy. For while Martin is impulsive, temperamental and erratic, he is also a man of courage and tenacity. It is possible that he will be outmaneuvered and out-fought, but he won't be scared and he won't be bluffed.

His career is conclusive proof of this.

Crusading Preacher

Born in 1902 and raised near Marion, Ill., a coal mining region, Martin witnessed a number of bloody strikes that made an indelible impression.

Son of a school teacher, his first leaning was toward the ministry, and at the age of 19 he became pastor of the Goreville, Ill., Baptist church. Simultaneously he taught school and attended a nearby normal school, later graduating from William Jewell College at Liberty Mo., in 1928.

Shortly afterwards he took over the Baptist church in Leeds, Mo., a suburb of Kansas City. It was here that Martin started his career as a labor leader.

A large part of his congregation were auto workers, and Martin became interested in their efforts to increase wages and reduce hours. When he took to preaching pro-labor sermons, his deacons protested, insisted that he confine himself to the gospels.

Martin's answer was to throw up his pulpit and get a job in a Kansas City auto plant.

From then on he was continually in the center of union activity. He took a leading role in attempting to unionize his plant and was fired for his pains. Shortly thereafter he was elected president of the local he helped to organize. The same year he was chosen a delegate to the first national meeting of auto union locals.

Later, when these locals were given a charter as an international union by the A. F. of L., Martin was appointed a vice president under Francis J. Dillon, the hand-picked boss put at the head of the new union by William Green.

The Green-Dillon domination of the UAW was short-lived. In 1936, Martin and a group of other young militants convened a convention at South Bend, Ind., declared themselves independent of the A. F. of L., ousted Dillon and elected Martin president. Shortly thereafter the union entered the C. I. O., and launched an expansion drive that in 18 months made it the second largest CIO affiliate and one of the five largest unions in the country.

Lucky Escapes

Martin's rise as a big-shot labor chief has been as turbulent as it was meteoric.

His life has been threatened repeatedly. While engaged in organization work in Kansas City with William Polley, a close friend and business agent for the truck drivers, Martin was warned that their lives were in danger if they didn't "lay off." The two men continued their union activity. On October 11, 1930, Polley was shot and killed. Martin, then visiting his home in Illinois, escaped.

More recently, while motoring to Detroit with two UAW members, Martin was warned that the men were thugs who had been planted in the union to get him. The men were searched and found to be armed.

It was after this experience that Martin got a bodyguard. His UAW foes charge that the guard actually is a "goon squad," used by Martin for strong-arm purposes, but he insists it is to protect him from attempts on his life.

Poor Executive

While a great platform spieler, Martin is a poor executive, dislikes administrative details, and lets his associates take care of the routine work of the union.

Nimble-witted and quick on his feet, he is not a deep thinker, and one of his frequent faults as head of the giant UAW is that he fails to think through the things he tackles.

At one time, Martin belonged to the Socialist Party and still is class-conscious. His present politics can best be described as New Deal and pro-Frank Murphy of Michigan. Or to use Martin's own remark to Jim Farley at the recent session of the Michigan State Democratic Convention:

"There are only two kinds of Democrats we auto workers are interested in: the Roosevelt kind and the Murphy kind. Just remember that."

Behind the dissension within the United Automobile Workers, on one hand, and between Martin and John L. Lewis are two factors:

1. Homer Martin's own emotionalism and ambition.

2. Bitter factionalism within the union induced partly because of its associates.

Over a year ago, John L. Lewis was asked my members of the Auto Workers to intervene. He replied:

"These are just growing-pains. These officers (meaning Martin, et al.) were elected by the men themselves, and you've got to let people in the individual unions work things out for themselves."

So John L. Lewis let Homer Martin work things out for himself. He wishes now that he had not done so. If Lewis had stepped in earlier he would not have the mess on his hands he has now.

Life Saver

Real fact is that Lewis kept the Auto Workers together when they were almost on the rocks during the worst of last winter's unemployment. At that time he went to both Roosevelt and Governor Murphy, arranging for extra relief funds to be given to unemployed members of the union. He even arranged that union leaders should cooperate in specifying who was eligible for relief.

Also the International Ladies' Garment Workers lent $250,000 to the Auto Workers, without which they would hardly be in existence today.

The first census of the United States was taken in 1790.

From the time of King David when the Jews believed that God punished the nation because the king took a census of the people, nations were suspicious of rulers who sought to enumerate their subjects . . . If they were not afraid of the anger of God, they were fearful that the information would be used in extorting ruinous taxes from them.

The Biblical prejudice was so strong in America that Governor Hunter of New York, was compelled to discontinue a proposed census in 1712; and a few years later, when the government of New Jersey wished to undertake such a task, the official dared not begin.

By 1787 it became imperative, for proper representation in Congress and equitable taxation, that a count be made of the population of the country; and a rather unsatisfactory census (the first) was therefore taken in 1790.

Yesterday: Linda stirs old hopes in Uncle Sandy. But she hasn't much money. She prays for a chance to make good somehow for Sandy.

CHAPTER IV

LINDA and her uncle arrived at the Radford auction on the minute, Linda was surprised at the smallness of the crowd in Brown's Barn on the main highway. Only a few collarless hangers-on were about the doorway. Bruce Radford was not there. He was entertaining some eastern buyers first at a barbecue.

"Let's take a look-see at those colts," Uncle Sandy led Linda into the barn, where a great golden animal stood at the head of the horses to be auctioned: a spirited creature, 16 hands high, with white forelegs and a white star on his face.

"That's him—Golden Toy," Uncle Sandy commented. "His sire was a fast 'un; his dam a weight-carrier. Never been raced; Will died just when he come 2-year old."

The horseman went over the colt carefully, stepped back, said, "He's sound, in wind and limb. Be a good buy at $3000—a bargain for anything less."

This sale was for cash. But maybe—

An idea flashed into Linda's mind; she wheeled on Uncle Sandy:

"Bruce, and those eastern buyers, are holding up this sale, while they eat and drink. If we can force the auctioneer—"

Uncle Sandy was quick of thought in his own field. A grin creased his leathery face. "You're a born horseman, honey. Come on!"

They went to the front of the barn. "Mr. Jenkins," Uncle Sandy spoke suavely, "this sale was advertised for 1:30, rain or shine. One-thirty sharp. It now is," he looked at a thick, split-second watch, "1:45. I say we start. We're here, money in hand."

* * *

MR. JENKINS' jaws moved a moment: he shifted his cud. "Yes, sir, you're right, Mr. Gordon—dead right. But I'm thinking—" he looked up the long highway a moment. "I'm thinking, yes, sir! Those eastern gents forget that we have daylight-saving time; they mean to be here at the real sun time. Yes, sir! So we'll just wait."

"But you can't do that!" Linda protested, as the crowd of idlers drew closer. "You said 1:30, and we're here. These gentlemen," she looked around at the unshaven, collarless crowd, "they're here—and we're ready to buy."

"She's right, Mr. Jenkins!"

"Cry that there sale!"

"Give us a chance to buy—we got a right to buy!"

Mr. Jenkins frowned with contempt at the crowd. He knew there wasn't a dime to a dozen of those loafers. His reddish eyes focused on Linda again:

"We'll sell at 1:30, sun time, Miss."

Linda turned away with her uncle. She muttered to him:

"We could get that colt for next to nothing—now."

Uncle Sandy nodded. "I know, honey; but nothing we can do."

He sat on a bale of hay, apart from the loungers. Linda walked to her car, got in. She wanted to be alone—and think. If she could have forced the sale, she could have bought the colt at her own price. But there was no moving that stolid auctioneer. Soon Bruce and the crowd would be here—with their thousands.

What could she do with a pitiful six hundred?

What a world, what a world!

Watch hands were at 2:30—1:30 by sun time—at last. Slowly Mr. Jenkins mounted his keg. The idlers flocked around him. "Folks, we'll just wait a few minutes—"

"You'll do no such thing!" The objection came from a youngster of 20 or so, who forced his way to the front: a slender young man with hard blue eyes and a chin that meant business. In clean sweater, boots and riding breeches, he, too, had been inspecting the colts when Linda and Uncle Sandy were in the barn.

Linda hadn't given him a thought, then; guessed, by his clothes, that he was an exercise boy for some wealthy stable. Now she noted his face: this was no stable man. He was clean-cut, a born leader. He was taking the initiative:

"The trust company advertised this sale for 1:30. It's now 2:30—our time. I don't care what time it is in London or New York. You hold this sale, or—" he left the threat unsaid.

"Well, now," the auctioneer thumbed his watch chain. There'd been trouble before, in the Blue Grass, when a sale was delayed. Maybe he'd better start with some of the less promising colts. Give Mr. Radford and his crowd time to get here. "Yes, sir, I think you're right, Mr. Donald. Yes, sir, we'll cry the sale. Now folks—"

* * *

A PROFESSIONAL smile oozed from his features; he lifted his voice: "We're selling, to the highest bidder, and for cash on the barrel-head, the remaining colts from the Radford estate. Cash in hand, no checks accepted. Cash talks today—and you'll get 'em cheap. You, Big Boy!"

He pointed to a gangling, barefoot black by the barn entrance. "Yas, suh, Mr. Jenkins." Big Boy shuffled out from the shade.

"Bring out that nice little bay colt. And hurry about it!"

"Yas, suh, I hurries." He did no such thing. He started lazily away.

"One minute!" Linda spoke quickly. Big Boy stopped in his ambling tracks. Mr. Jenkins looked down inquiringly at her. "Sell the golden chestnut first—Golden Toy."

"Well, now, Miss, we'll come to him—just wait, please ma'am."

"Look at that sign on the door!" Linda pointed to the sales sign. "The chestnut, Golden Toy, is listed first. You auction him first."

"Well, now—" the auctioneer was cut short by calls from the crowd:

"Sell 'em accordin' to order!"

"Bring out that chestnut first, Big Boy!"

"What kind of a sale is this?"

Mr. Jenkins raised a placating hand. Before he could open his mouth, the keen-looking youngster was speaking:

"I suggest you sell those horses in order. This auction is beginning to get—smelly."

The auctioneer's face turned more red. Again there were catcalls, shouts. He didn't like it.

"All right, folks, your pleasure is my delight! You want to bid on the chestnut first, and the chestnut you shall have. Bring him out, Big Boy. Smartly, now!"

The youngster stepped to Linda's side. "You want him, don't you?"

She looked into his eyes. He was all business. "Maybe," she answered cautiously. He smiled for the first time—a friendly, disarming smile. Said: "I want him, too—maybe. He's got long legs—should make a dandy steeplechaser."

From inside the barn came footclumps on the earthen floor. Big Boy hove into view, leading the chestnut. The crowd backed off into a circle. The sun's rays fell on the colt's shining body. He seemed gold—all gold. Now Big Boy was leading him to the block—

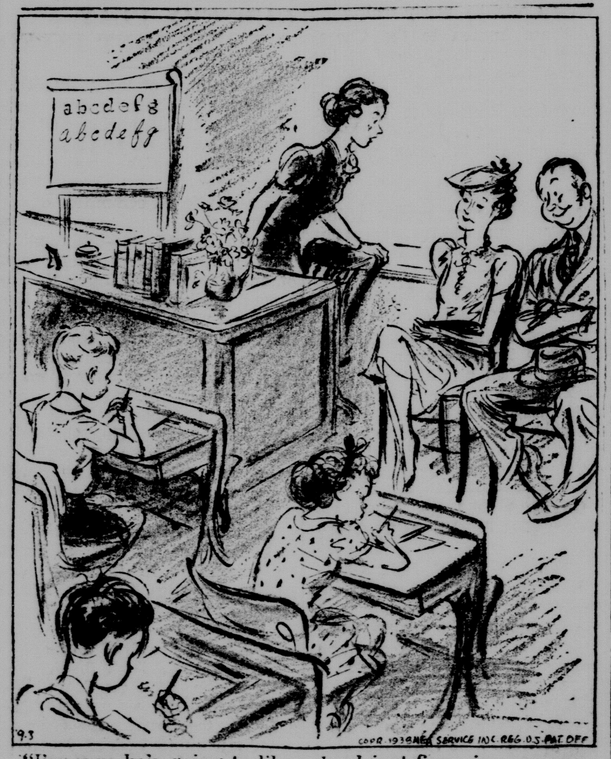

"We have here Golden Toy—" the auctioneer broke off, looked anxiously up the road. He—and the crowd—had heard the distant honking of a motor horn.

"Folks, I crave your indulgence for one minute. Somebody else is coming."

A big roadster, horn sounding imperiously, slithered to the barn, stopped in a cloud of dust.

Labor Marches To Labor Day Divided Into Warring Columns

American Federation of Labor and Committee For Industrial Organization Continue Their Quest For Leadership.

(By Thomas F. Coman)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—(AP)—Organized labor marches up to another Labor day still divided into two warring columns.

The American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization both appear determined to continue their quest for leadership of the organized labor movement.

Indications are that union men in both camps will give thought this labor day, Monday, to these problems of the coming year:

1. Efforts to revise the Wagner labor relations act. The A. F. of L. favors amending the act; the CIO defends the act "as is."

2. The continued struggle between the A. F. of L. advocates of craft unionism and the CIO's industrial unionists.

3. Threats of internal dissension in the CIO.

Since last labor day, the slowing down of industry after an early 1937 spurt admittedly hit hard the rival organizing drives of the two union groups.

During the year labor took part in the off-year political campaigns and fought recurring threats of wage reductions.

The state and congressional primary campaigns afforded both the CIO and the A. F. of L. opportunity to demonstrate their political power.

Scattered "Blessings"

The Federation, following its traditional non-partisan policy, scattered its "blessings" on house and senate members who supported the A. F. of L. legislative proposals.

But the three-year-old CIO, operating through labor's non-partisan policy, scattered its "blessings" on house and senate members who supported the A. F. of L. legislative proposals.

But the three-year-old CIO, operating through labor's non-partisan league, put its political operations on a bigger scale. It "black-listed" some 40 house members and endeavored to build up what it called "an army of pro-labor voters on a national scale." The league's campaign produced a mixture of victory and debate.

Some labor men found proof that the nation was not ready for a third party—a labor party—in the CIO's failure in its major effort to nominate candidates for governor and senator in Pennsylvania's Democratic primary.

Near the end of the labor year the A. F. of L. began a campaign to change portions of the national labor relations act. Its leaders contended the board had too much discretionary power and denounced some of its decisions as "pro-CIO."

President Roosevelt, after talking with President William Green of the A. F. of L., said the act needed some clarifying amendments to deal with ambiguities that had developed in its administration.

CIO Prepares To Fight

John L. Lewis and his CIO prepared to fight in the next congress, not only the A. F. of L. proposed amendments, but also the demands of business groups for modifications.

Pending a possible conference of labor, government and industry on Wagner act changes, the administration did not commit itself on the A. F. of L. demands. But its principal spokesman on labor legislation, Senator Wagner (D-NY), conferred with the Federation's executive council.

A highlight of the labor year was the peace negotiations in November and December, designed to reunite the two wings of organized labor.

A series of conferences between negotiating committees finally produced a tentative basis for ending the schism that started in 1935, when the CIO began organizing mass production workers into industry-wide unions.

Lewis and Green met for two days in personal conferences after their negotiations had worked for weeks, but the negotiations collapsed.

Then, both sides settled down for a fight to the finish for control of the labor movement.

Only recently the A. F. of L. advanced proposals for carrying the union warfare into coal mining, textiles and the maritime industry.

Quarrel On Control

A quarrel over control of the United Auto Workers Union, dating back to the General Motors strike in 1937, split that CIO union's ranks, and resulted in the ouster of three international vice presidents and the secretary-treasurer.

Efforts of Lewis to patch up the quarrel by reinstating the disciplined officers and referring disputes to a CIO committee brought the dominant faction of the union, led by President Homer Martin, to the verge of a break with the CIO.

On the west coast, rubber workers, auto workers, shoe workers and members of the International Ladies' Garment workers union clashed with Harry Bridges over his control of CIO union affairs along the Pacific. Deportation of Bridges, a native of Australia, has been asked on the grounds he was a member of the Communist party.

Communist activity in the Laborbor movement became a prime issue between antagonistic labor groups during the year. It was made one of the big issues in the Auto Workers' union fight.

When a special house committee headed by Representative Martin Dies (D-Tex) began investigating un-American artivities, John P. Frey, chief of the A. F. of L. metal trades department, laid before it charges that the CIO was honeycombed with Communists.

Frey said he "absolved Lewis of the taint of Communism" but charged that many of his lieutenants were either Communist party members or "fellow travelers."

There were numerous localized strikes during the year, but the only major strike threat arose in the railroad industry where the organized brotherhoods refused to agree to a 15 per cent wage cut.

DID NOT GET $15 OFF SWEARNGIN SHERIFF SAYS

Declared Amount Was Paid To Sedalia Attorney As a Fee

Commenting on the $27,500 suit filed against him, on his bond, by G. C. Swearngin, Sedalia beer salesman, Sheriff W. L. Marlin, said that he did not ask for, nor get $15 from Swearngin. That amount of money, he said, was counted out by Swearngin the morning he was released from jail, and handed, as a fee, to Fred Wesner, attorney, who had been called on by friends of Swearngin and asked to take charge of his case.

The sheriff said that on the night in question, August 11, Swearngin called the jail about 11:30 o'clock, insisting that one of the inmates needed hospitalization. The officer replied that it was not necessary. Swearngin, the sheriff said, then called the prosecuting attorney, L. J. Harned, and Circuit Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, complaining that the inmate was ill and should have hospital care. Dr. J. E. Mitchell, county health physician made a visit to the jail, examined the prisoner, and said he was all right. All that, said the sheriff, and with the belief, according to the officer, that Swearngin might be conveying articles to some of the inmates in the jail, caused him to go to his home and take him in custody for investigation. He placed him in jail, he said, after a tussle in the front yard of the jail and as they went down the corridor.

Inquired About Warrant

The next morning, the sheriff continued, he went to the prosecuting attorney's office, explaining the situation, said he was holding Swearngin for investigation, and asked if a warrant could be obtained. He was informed, he said, by the prosecuting attorney he did not believe there was a statute under which a warrant could be issued.

He returned to the jail, the sheriff asserts, was visited by Fred Wesner, attorney, who had previously called on the 'phone, and after being assured that Swearngin would cease his calls and remain away from the jail, he was released.

Attorney Wesner said that early on the morning of August 12, he was visited at his office by two men who said they were friends of Swearngin. They told him, he continued, that Swearngin had been arrested and asked if he could learn why he was being held. Mr. Wesner called the jail, then went over, asked that Swearngin be brought out into the living room, which was done, and had a conversation with him. Mr. Wesner said he asked Swearngin if he was to understand that he was being employed by him, either to attempt to have him released or represent him in a preliminary hearing if one was necessary, because if he was his fee would be $15. Swearngin said that was agreeable, and when it was decided that he was to be discharged Swearngin was handed an envelope, sealed, and with his name on it.

Mr. Wesner said that he (Wesner) tore the end off the envelope, counted out the contents, approximately $60, in the presence of Swearngin and John Starkey, deputy sheriff, and asked Swearngin if that was the right amount. Swearngin said it was. "Well, you might as well pay me now," said Wesner. Swearngin said, "All right," and Wesner counted out fifteen dollars, three five dollar bills, and handed the rest of the money to Swearngin. The latter said he owed someone at the jail thirty cents for making a purchase of cigarettes, or something for him, and gave Starkey that amount.

Earlier in the morning Swearngin had asked permission to 'phone his father. He was brought out into the living quarters by Deputy Sheriff John Starkey, and while there gave Starkey the money to keep for him. Starkey placed it in an envelope, sealed it, and put it away.

REPORTS AT MEET OF FARM BUREAU

The regular meeting of the Pettis County Farm Bureau board of directors was held in the assembly room at the court house, Saturday afternoon with R. W. Dow presiding.

A report of the extension program carried out during the month of August was given by the extension agents.

Mrs. P. S. Read, home and community chairman, announced that the 4th district Farm Bureau meeting will be held at the Unity Farm on Highway 50, 2½ miles northwest of Lee's Summit, Jackson County, on September 13.

The basket dinner is to start at 12:00 o'clock and the program to follow immediately thereafter. The suggested menu consists of the following items of food:

Chicken bread and butter sandwiches, fruit salad, Potato salad, Pickles or Olives, Potato chips, fruit, cake, ice cream (furnished).

All food should be brought in containers which do not need to be returned in order to avoid confusion later. Paper plates, spoons, forks, cups, and paper napkins will be furnished.

Those planning on attending this picnic from Pettis County are asked to report to the county extension office if they have car space for someone else. Those who do not have a way to go should also contact the county extension office and an attempt will be made to arrange transportation for them.

FAMOUS AVIATOR INSTALLS WARNING SIGNAL ON PLANE

Things are getting so crowded in the sky today that Colonel

Arthur C. Goebel,—famous for his 1927 nonstop flight to the Hawaiian Islands—has installed a warning signal on his Phillips 66 skywriting plane. This signal, a cross between a fog horn and a whistle—makes a noise much like a banshee. So next time you hear a noise such as you never heard before—look up in the air—chances are you will see Colonel Goebel far above the city going through the intricate air maneuvers required to write in letters more than one-half mile high.

SLEEPING SICKNESS BREAKS OUT AMONG HORSES ON PETTIS COUNTY FARMS

Encephalitis or sleeping sickness of horses has broken out in Pettis county. The disease is caused by a specific filter-passing virus which affects the brain tissue of horses causing marked disturbances of the central nervous system. The number of horses affected on any one particular farm varies from one to two animals to as high as 50 per cent or more, according to reports to the county agent's office.

Observations in the field indicate that the disease is transmitted by blood-sucking insects. The disease is seasonal, usually appearing in July and disappearing in the fall soon after the first killing frost. The occurence of the disease is less where the horses have been protected from being bitten by blood-sucking insects.

The first symptom that is noticed may be depression or lagging at work. The animal usually runs a high temperature, 104 to 106 degrees F., in the early stages of the disease. This may be followed by incoordination, prostration and motor and sensory paralysis appearing rapidly in the order given. When the disease is first noticed, a veterinarian should be called to administer treatment. Quiet and rest are essential for the stricken horses. A good investment would be thermometer and take the temperature of the horses twice a day, since a rise in temperature is the first symptoms of the disease. If the temperature exceeds 101 degrees F., the horse should not be worked and carefully watched and kept in a darkened stall, that is as far removed from the sun's ray as possible.

Affected horses should have water as often as they will drink. They should be fed succulent feeds such as bran, threshed oats, and some green corn with the ears removed.

Horses that get down, do not have as good a chance for recovery as those that can be kept on their feet. Weakened horses should be placed in a supporting frame to keep them on their feet. Purgatives are not recommended as they weaken the animal.

Since it is believed that blood-sucking insects are responsible for the transmission of the disease, every effort should be directed toward preventing animals from being bitten by insects. This may be done by the use of fly sprays and keeping the horses quartered in darkened stalls.

Horses should be watched for symptoms. A local veterinarian should be called to administer treatment. Protective measures promptly adopted and good care of affected animals will do a lot to alleviate a bad situation.

The use of a vaccine, available through the veterinarian, has been reported to be a quick and effective method of immunization of animals.

Girl Scouts and Counselors Home

Misses Jane McEniry, Arlene Downs and Elizabeth McLaughlin, local Girl Scout leaders, who have served as counselors at the state Girl Scout camp near, Kaiser, Mo., for the past five weeks, will return today accompanied by Betty Mae Barnett, Dorothy Hedderick and Charlotte Smith, who have been in Pin Oak Camp the past two weeks.

The camp is entirely new having been constructed by the government two years ago and rented to the Girl Scouts. It is constructed of log, screened cabins, low and rustic which fit into the surrounding landscape on the long peninsula extending out into the Lake of the Ozarks. The campers are arranged into units according to their ages and interests. Here they enjoy such activities as camp craft, archery, nature study, photography, swimming, life-saving, songs, stories, dramatics, dancing pioneering, and overnight float trips. An ideal beach has been developed in a protected cove where safe swimming is provided for non-swimmers as well as swimmers.

The Sedalia girls who served as counselors were a part of a trained staff including a trained nurse, dietician, Red Cross examiners and life savers. The director, Mrs. Robert Ricketts has had years of experience in conducting camps and has been highly successful in helping girls to grow accustomed to the rhythm of simple, happy living in a community of girls.

Other Sedalia girls who attended Pin Oak Camp the first period from July 31 to August 20, were: Betty Reid, Genevieve Stanley, Janet Stanley, Margaret Preston, Patty Quinn, Dorothy Dean and LaVonne Wright.

Marriage Licenses Issued

Howard W. Dickhout, Kansas City, and Eleanor Sherlock, Buffalo, N. Y.

Francis Holman Martin, and Georgia Stelljes, both of Sedalia.

Lester Hofmeister, Belleville, Ill., and Esther Coley, East St. Louis, Ill.

FERTILIZER NEED FOR SEEDING TO GROW BARLEY

Increased Return From its Use On Farm of John M. Sneed

Above: Missouri early beardless barley as produced on the John Sneed farm, Sedalia, in the spring of 1938. On the left Fertilizer was drilled with the barley; while on the right, no fertilizer application was made. The fertilizer increased the yield approximately 20 bushels per acre.

"It doesn't pay to seed barley without fertilizer," is the opinion of John M. Sneed from the observations and experience in the producing of Missouri early beardless barley during the past few years. His experience on the crop barley which he harvested this spring where he secured an increase of approximately 20 bushels per acre by the use of fertilizer shows very clearly the value of applying the fertilizer.

One hundred fifty pounds per acre of a complete/ commercial fertilizer was drilled in with the barley when it was seeded in the fall of 1937 with a production of 22.7 bushels per acre on the fertilized part of the field. A small area in the field was not fertilized and produced 2.8 bushels per acre. The cost of the fertilizer was approximately $2.00 per acre, which gave Mr. Sneed an increased return of approximately $6.00 per acre on his barley.

Another Pettis county farmer, J. A. DeJarnette, of Sedalia, made an application of 150 lbs. of 32 per cent superphosphate per acre on the barley which he seeded for harvest in 1938 and secured a yield of 47 bushels per acre.

There has been a substantial increase during the last year in the number of Pettis county farmers who are raising barley. Its early maturity which makes it a good nurse crop for grasses and legumes and also gives it the advantage of escaping much of the damege done by chinch bugs and spring drouths and its ability to provide an abundant amount of pasture particularly in the fall as well as making a good grain crop are some of the outstanding characteristics which have caused an increased acreage in the county.

Pointers Are Given

In seeding winter barley, several steps must be kept in mind if the seeding can be expected to be successful. They are:

1. Preparation of a clean, mellow seed bed.
2. Use a pure seed (certified seed desirable).
3. Drill in liberal amounts of commercial fertilizer with the seeding.
4. Treat seed for stripe and smut.
5. Seed early in September at the rate of two bushels per acre if wanted for pasture or seed three to four weeks later at a slightly reduced rate per acre for maximum grain production.
6. Seed on a medium to fertile land.
7. Use a recommended variety.

On the more fertile soils, particularly where a legume crop has been produced within the past few years, the general recommendation is to apply an application of 125-150 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate or its equivalent; however, on many fields of this kind, fertilizer carrying a small amount of potash with the phosphorus may be more desirable.

On medium fertile fields which have not produced a legume crop recently, the use of a high analysis complete fertilizer such as 4-16-4 at 125 to 150 pounds per acre will probably give best results.

The Ethyl Mercury phosphate dust treatment (new improved ceresan) has proven to be one of the most satisfactory treatments in controlling stripe, covered smut, and black, loose smut in barley. Apply at the rate of one-half ounce per bushel in a mixing machine. The dusted grain should be kept in a bin, pile or wagon box for at least 24 hours during which time it should remain uncovered. Seed treated in this manner will be ready for planting immediately after this period or may be stored for as long as four weeks.

Instructions should be followed in making this treatment as an excess of the dust may injure germination. Seed after being treated should not be fed to farm animals.

When barley is seeded early, it must be kept pastured off so that it will not joint. Jointed barley, even if pastured off after jointing cannot be expected to go through the winter nor can over-grazed barley be expected to go through the winter.

Fall grazing should start when the growth is four to five inches tall and proceed through the fall so that approximately three inches of growth goes into the winter.

At the Columbia station, early seeded barley on medium land that has been fertilized has produced as much as 30 cattle days pasture per acre during the fall months.

A good supply of Missouri earl beardless barley is available in Pettis county. For further information, write or call your county agent

OAK GROVE CLUBS HAVE DISPLAY AND PROGRAM

Awards Made and Special Entertainment Is Presented

The Oak Grove 4-H Poultry and Dinner Clubs held their achievement program at the community hall Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock before a group of 31 friends and relatives.

The Dinner Club was under the leadership of Miss Ruth Needy and the Poultry Club under Mrs. Clifford and Mrs. Charley Mawhorter.

The Dinner Club had yeast breads, butter cake, salads, cocktails and vegetables on display.

The Poultry Club had desirable and undesirable eggs and record books on display also feed posters and kodak pictures of the club.

There was also a display of buttons, kodak pictures and framed pictures which were made at the Pettis County Club camp, also Camp Tattler.

The following program was given:

"History of the Poultry Club"—Geraldine Mawhorter. In her talk Geraldine said eight members started with 50 baby chicks apiece from the Swift and Co. hatchery, from which 366 of the 400 chicks were raised. Thelma Brunkhorst raised all 50 of hers.

"Selecting of Hatching Eggs"—Thelma Brunkhorst.

Brooding Chicks—Maxine Mawhorter.

Disease Prevention and Control—Oliver Redtfeldt.

Feed—Elsie Mawhorter.

How to Avoid Parasites—Betty Redtfeldt.

Production and Care of Good Market Eggs—Gordon Redtfeldt.

Mrs. Clifford Mawhorter talked on the "Aim of the Poultry Club," which is intended to provide boys and girls with the opportunity of obtainingg satisfactory financial experience, practical production methods upon which financial success depends and to develop leadership and to provide healthful recreational activities.

What constitutes a Standard Club—Miss Needy.

Accounts of Camp

An interesting account of the County 4-H Camp held at Montserrat park August 1-4, to which eight members and the three leaders attended was given by Clark Romig.

Camp and club songs were then sung with Elsie Mawhorter at the piano.

History of the Dinner Club—Maxine Mawhorter.

Piano Solo—Elsie Mawhorter.

"Flea Trick"—Clark Romig.

Miss Needy announced the ribbons won at the 4-H Club county round up at Sedalia, which were:

Elsie Mawhorter—1st, butter cake.

Maxine Makhorter—2nd, butter cake.

Geraldine Mawhorter — 2nd, yeast bread.

Maxine and Elsie Mawhorter in the red ribbon group in demonstration.

Margaret Sperber — 1st, in grooming contest.

Elsie and Maxine Mawhorter—1st and 2nd in judging of yeast bread and menus.

"The Fookum Brothers" entertained with "Death Defying Acts" to the amusement of all. They were Sharley Boy (the clown) Clark Romig; Popeye (the strong man) Melvin Dexheimer; Jack Sprat (the tumbler) Oliver Redtfeldt; Oscar (a most daring young man) George Holmes; Wimpy, Gordon Redtfeldt.

A 4-H drill was given by the girls — Ruth Dexheimer, Anna Katherine Romig, Thelma Brunkhorst, Elsie Mawhorter, Betty Redtfeldt, Geraldine and Maxine Mawhorter. They used the club colors of green and white. At the conclusion of the drill they formed the 4-H and repeated the 4-H Club pledge.

At the conclusion of the program the members served refreshments of cookies they had made, and grape punch.

These clubs will continue though the winter. They attended the State Fair in a body on Thursday and viewed the 4-H exhibits, also other things of interest, had a picnic lunch and spent the afternoon as they choose.

SAMUEL: SPIRITUAL REVIVAL

Text: I Samuel 7:3-13

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

In the crisis of the defeat of the Israelites by the Philistines and the carrying away of the Ark of the Covenant with the tragic death of Eli, there comes as the savior of the people the man whose devout mother, Hannah, had dedicated him as a babe to the service of the temple.

Samuel struck at the very roots of the trouble in Israel. He did not begin by amassing a great army, but he began first of all by attacking the moral condition of the people. He urged them that, with all their hearts, they should put away the foreign gods from them and the base and corrupting forms of idolatrous worship, and that they should serve the Lord of Israel.

The people responded to his appeal, and when it was that Samuel gathered them together and began to marshal them for the victory that they were ultimately to attain. He called all the people together at Mizpah, and there, with the ritual practice of drawing water and pouring it forth on a day of fasting, he confessed the sins of the people.

Samuel became, by strength of personality and moral conviction, the judge of Israel. Word of the massing together of the people of Mizpah came to the Philistine, and they had conquered.

It was a trying time for Samuel. Would his leadership suffice? Could he inspire the fear-stricken Israelites with the will and the power to resist the Philistines.

* * *

In the presence of the people Samuel performed a sacrificial rite and at the same time prayed earnestly for the deliverance of Israel.

There came a great thundering, and the Philistines—fear-stricken and discomfited—went down before the aroused people of Israel. New heart and courage took hold of the Israelies, and they pursued the Philistines, whom they had feared so greatly.

It was in the hour of this great victory that Samuel took a stone and set it up as a monument between Mizpah and Shen, calling it Ebenezer, signifying that hitherto the Lord had helped the people.

The closing verse of our lesson is very significant. It tells how the Philistines were subdued and came no more within the border of Israel. When one measures against that the defeat of the time of Eli, when the Ark of the Covenant was captured and when Israel was put in a position of fear and bondage, one can appreciate the meaning of this great deliverance.

And the lesson is not far to seek. Moral discipline and moral character is the ultimate strength of nations and people as it is of individuals.

A nation may seem to flourish in greed and corruption and disregard of justice, truth, and right. But the downfall inevitably and surely comes, while just as truly and inevitably righteousness exalts a nation and a people.

LABOR DAY MADE NATIONAL HOLIDAY BY U. S. CONGRESS

Contention It Should Be Always On a Week-day Prevailed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A Missouri senator's amendment seeking to fix Labor day on the first day of September instead of the first Monday created virtually the only debate that occurred in congress when it passed in 1894 a law making Labor day a national legal holiday.

The amendment finally was withdrawn.

When the bill came up for argument Senator Francis M. Cockrell (D-Mo) declared the date should be the first day of September instead of the first Monday as provided in the bill introduced by Senator James Henderson Kyle (Ind-SD). He moved to amend the bill.

Senator Mitchell of Oregon immediately objected, declaring the holiday would come on Sunday every few years.

"So does the Fourth of July and so does any fixed holiday fall upon Sunday occasionally," Senator Cockrell replied.

Mitchell declared it should be set for a week, day and Senator Sherman (R-Ohio) commended that if labor organizations had fixed "their own time, as it is said 23 states have done, we had better let them have a week day."

"I do not myself like to encourage holidays on Sunday," Sherman said. "There is too much old Presbyterian in me for that."

Cockrell answered that he too did not like to encourage Sunday holidays but if there "is to be any symetry in our holiday this ought to be fixed on the first day of the month, just as we have the Fourth of July, the 25th of December, the 30th day of May and so on for public holidays."

But he added he had no "serious" objection to the first Monday and would withdraw his amendment if there should be objection. Senator Sherman objected. saying it should be left as the first Monday.

Curing Unknown Disease

Frequently cases defy all methods of diagnosis. It would seem then that treatment would be useless but this is not true if your doctor is a chiropractor. This is due to the fact that the function of every part is carried on by the nervous system and repair of diseased parts are controlled by the nerves. Even though one knows where the trouble is and not what it is, chiropractors may cure.

Dr. Roy M. Keller

Spinal analysis tells the chiropractor where the nerve supply originates which goes to the diseased area and by restoring normal nerve supply the case will get well, even though he does not know what is the matter. I have had such cases myself and KNOW that it CAN be done.

If you found the electric wire to a building broken you would know that any electrical equipment therein could not be operating. You do not know what these machines are but you do know that if you restore the connections between the open ends, the machines will again function.

By restoring normal nerve supply the patient will get well unless destruction is too great due to delay or previous wrong treatment.

If your case is a doubtful one let this new modern healing method restore your health.

Auto and Truck Collide

An Oldsmobile sedan, driven by Fred Anton, of 709 East Tenth street, and a delivery truck of the Sedalia Produce Company, collided in the one hundred block on East Third street Saturday morning. The right front and rear fenders on the sedan were damaged and a tire blew out. A fender on the truck was dented.

Resumes Her Duties

Miss B. R. Roper, R. N., 700 West Henry street, resumed her duties at City hospital No. 2 on Thursday morning after her vacation, part of which was spent in Yellowstone Park, Wyoming and Little Rock, Ark.

CHIROPRACTORS FAVOR STANDARD COLLEGE COURSE

Recognizing the need of more uniform educational system, the National Chiropractic Association has just adopted a program calling for a four-year standard college course, it was announced today by Dr. Roy M. Keller, local representative of the organization.

In several states, as well as in the Province of Ontario, a four year course is now required, he adds.

"Even under minimum standards, chiropractors receive comparatively more training today than do practioners of any other legalized healing system," he says. "They do not use drugs or practice surgery, but receive a thorough schooling in anatomy, neurology, pathology, hygiene and other important foundation subjects.

"Chiropractic colleges are supported solely by tuition of students. They do not receive tax money. The profession is less than a half century old and the origination of educational standards has been difficult due to handicaps under which its colleges have operated in competition with state universities and endowed private colleges.

"Approximately 35,000,000 people patronize chiropractors and the adoption of uniform education standards should go a long way toward stabilizing the profession and advancing the science."

EMPHASIS WEEK FOR RELIGION

The churches of Sedalia under the leadership of the Ministerial Alliance are making very elaborate plans for Religious Emphasis week, September 18 to September 25. During that week the churches will unite in afternoon and evening programs. Not alone for the local congregations are the meetings planned but invitations are going out this coming week to all Protestant churches in the county to enjoy some of the meetings with the people of Sedalia.

On the two Sundays the ministers will preach on similar themes. Each afternoon, under the leadership of the women's council of Sedalia programs will be given on the general theme, "The Problems of the City and Their Solution." Special groups representing the churches will have charge of the evening's program. These will begin at 7:30 and be given each evening from Monday through Friday.

The meetings between Sunday will be held in the Service building of the Broadway Presbyterian church. Ample parking space for cars will be found near the church. One of the special features of the week's programs will be exhibits of various phases of church activity. Many charts and curios will be displayed. Also motion pictures will be shown each evening. Further announcements of the interesting details of the week will be given within a few days.

BUS FOR C. M. S. T. C. STUDENTS STARTS TUESDAY

The new 42-passenger bus, which will be used to take Sedalia students to and from Warrensburg, to the State Teachers college, daily during the school year, will leave Smith-Cotton high school at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. Orientation will take place that morning, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Later a four point stop in Sedalia will be worked out.

The contract for operating the bus has been awarded to William Turnbull of Warrensburg.

New Equipment Purchased For Crown Hill Cemetery

Crown Hill cemetery adds all new equipment for the grave side, of the latest design including a new invention, a combination casket placer to grave closure. The device is equipped with hard rubber rollers and makes it very easy for the pall bearers to roll the casket on a green silk plush covered bier, making a most beautiful setting. The latest was also purchased in the new frigid lowering device with chromium plated finish. The device stands about 16 inches high and is inclosed with a green silk plush skirt which completely inclases the grave. The very best green grass covering was purchased, the special grass which is used in making these coverings is grown in Madagascar, a large island in the Indian Ocean. Two new tents were purchased which are green and trimmed in white and have siv foot side walls. The new equipment makes Crown Hill cemetery one of the most modern in the state.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Laura Rider Henry

Mrs. Laura Rider Henry, wife of Porter Henry, of Spring Fork, died at 8 o'clock Saturday morning at Rochester, Minn., where she had gone a week ago for medical treatment. With her when she passed away were her husband and two sisters, Mrs. Gussie Henry of Independence, and Mrs. Dora Anthony of Kansas City. She had not been in good health for several months, but her condition had been serious only about ten days.

News of her death was received Saturday morning in a message to her brother, Henry Rider, at Spring Fork.

Mrs. Henry was reared in Spring Fork, and when a young woman became a professional nurse. She enlisted with the Red Cross during the World War, served overseas and was one of two Pettis county women, both nurses, who were members of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion.

Mrs. Henry leaves her husband, the two sisters who were with her, and two brothers, William and Henry Rider, of Spring Fork.

The body, accompanied by relatives, will arrive in Sedalia at 10:38 o'clock this morning, and will be taken to Gillespie's Funeral Home. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

Frank Berry

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hanley, Mrs. Stella Longan and Miss Trace Berry are in Houston, Tex., where they were called by the death of Mrs. Hanley's, Mrs. Longan's and Miss Berry's brother, Frank Berry, whose funeral was in Houston Friday morning.

Mr. Berry, formerly a resident of Missouri, had been in ill health for some time.

Mrs. Mary Longan, of Houstonia, and John Berry, of Sweet Springs, also survive.

Mrs. Elizabeth Masterson

News has been received here of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Masterson, 68, a sister of Tom Oversby, Ninth and New York, and an aunt of Tom Herrick, of this city.

Mrs. Masterson died at her home in Lake Fork, Ill., at 10:30 o'clock Friday night. She resided in the La Monte vicinity about 20 years ago.

Burial will be in Lake Fork at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Charles Harty

Mrs. Charles Dale, of North Grand avenue, has received news of the death of her brother, Charlie Harty, at Coffeyville, Kas.

Mr. Harty was a former Sedalian, and when a boy lived with his parents at 518 North Grand avenue.

He leaves his wife and aged mother, who is ill and confined to her bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dale, and Mr. and Mrs. Asa Chambers have gone to Coffeyville to attend the funeral.

HULL ASKS G. O. P. TO DEFY CHAIRMAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull called upon the Republican party tonight to defy its national chairman, John M. Hamilton, and support the administration's trade agreements program.

That program provides for the reciprocal reduction of import duties by negotiations with foreign nations.

Accusing Hamilton of misusing trade figures so as to arouse "unwarranted fears and prejudices" among American farmers regarding the agreements, the secretary declared:

"I hope that those for whom you speak will rise to a great opportunity; will abandon futile attacks on this program; and will concentrate on serving the paramount interests of the nation."

In an open letter Hull replied to Hamilton's letter of August 13 to him, charging the State Department with issuing false information in connection with trade agreements.

The secretary criticized Hamilton's "strange denial" the trade agreements program contributed to peace, saying:

"It is serving the great cause of peace at this critical time when every possible weight should be cast into the balance on the side of peace."

Hull long has contended the trade treaties promoted peace by removing artificial trade barriers and increasing the flow of needed goods between countries.

LOSES LIFE IN THE CRASH OF PLANE

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 3.—(AP)—An intended "few minutes" pleasure flight ended in death today for I. U. Patterson, 43, Tulsa theater electrician, when his monoplane dived to earth while his wife watched.

R. O. Lindsay, civil aeronautics inspector, said the motor evidently stalled and Patterson, at an estimated altitude of 400 feet, had "no chance" to pull out of the dive. The crash occurred eight miles east of here soon after Patterson took off at a private airport.

WOMAN TAKES BENDIX TROPHY AND $12,500 CASH

ord, Burbank to Bendix, went unclaimed.

Miss Cochran received $9,000 as the first flier to reach Cleveland, $1,000 as the first pilot to see Bendix, and $2,500 as the first—and only woman— to reach Cleveland.

Fuller received $5,000 for the second best time into Cleveland and $800 for following Miss Cochran to Bendix.

Paul Mantz, of Los Angeles, who was formerly technical advisor to Amelia Earhart, took third place and $3,000 with his average of 206.597 and an elapsed time of nine hours, 36 minutes and 25 seconds. Fourth for $2,000 was Max Constant, movie flyer, in a Beechchaft who took ten hours, 14 minutes and 39 seconds and averaged 199.330 miles an hour.

Fifth was Ross Hadley, of Los Angeles in a Beechcraft, winning $1,000 with an elapsed time of 11 hours, 13 minutes and 46 seconds. The only other plane to reach Cleveland before the 6 p. m. deadline, the Sparton occupied by John Hinchey and Charles LaJatte wound up with an average of 177.499 for the distance, and was out of the prize money.

Lee Gehlbach of New York, one of the last three pilots to take off at Burbank, arrived at 6:30 p. m. at the Cleveland airport, where it was reported he had been forced down at Marion, O., before continuing to Cleveland. Gehlbach, flying a Wedell-Williams, left Burbank at 7:08 a. m. (CST).

Bellanca Aircraft Corp., maker of the craft piloted by Frank Cordova of New York, said Cordova landed at Bloomington, Ill., when he realized he could not reach Cleveland before dark. Taking off at 7:43 a. m., he flew 600 miles at 350 miles per hour, until a motor failed, and then continued 1,000 miles with two motors, the company announced.

Robert Perlick of Los Angeles. who soared from Burbank at 7:15 a. m., in a Beechcraft, reported to Unian Air Terminal officials at Burbank tonight he had been forced down at Woodriver, Ill. He gave no details.

George Armistead, of Los Angeles, was forced out of the race when his Geebee developed motor trouble and he landed at Winslow, Ariz.

Louise Thaden, the Bendix winner in 1936, was the first woman to take the race. Miss Cochran was third last year, finishing the Burbank-Cleveland leg behind Fuller and Earl Ortman.

Miss Cochran received a limited commercial license in 1933 and a few months later gained a transport license.

Made Speed Record

She established a world's women's speed record of 203 miles an hour last September over a three-kilometer course in Detroit. Last December she flew non-stop from New York to Miami in 4 hours, 12 minutes at an average speed of about 300 miles per hour.

She owns and manages three cosmetic salons in Los Angeles, Chicago and New York, and heads a cosmetic manufacturing company.

She is completing a home at Indio, Calif., for 24 orphans she says she wants to adopt. She calls herself a "full fledged orphan, since her earliest recollection is of boarding with a family in Pensacola, Fla., On her first job, which she started at age 11, she earned $1.50 a week. At 19 she owned a beauty shop in Miami.

SIX REPORTED DEAD AS A BUS OVERTURNED

BELMONT, N. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—An Asheville-Charlotte passenger bus plunged down an embankment and overturned after it collided with an automobile late tonight on the Gastonia-Charlotte highway.

Marshall Walker, a filling station attendant working near the scene of the accident, said six occupants of the automobile were reported killed, but added he did not think any of the bus passengers were among the fatalities.

Some of the passengers in the bus were hurt, he said.

FIVE PERISH IN RAGING FLOODS IN MOUNTAINS

Virtually Destroy Two Colorado Resort Towns In The Rockies

DENVER, Sept. 3.—Floods raging down mountain canons on a 200-mile front of the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains killed at least five persons, virtually destroyed two resort towns and caused vast damage. Officials reported several missing and expressed fear some may have perished.

Four victims of Colorado's widest spread deluge in decades drowned near oMrrison, a resort town 15 miles southwest of Denver smashed last night by converging flood torrents in Bear Creek Canon and Mount Vernon Canon.

The fifth victim died in the plunge of an automobile into a 20-foot hole cut by surging flood water in a trunk highway.

In Eldorado Springs, resort of 200 population northwest of Denver, between 15 and 20 houses were swept away and a dance hall was wrecked.

The flood front extended along the eastern ridges of the Rocky mountains from Pueblo northward to Fort Collins. A bridge that withstood the disastrous 1935 Memorial Day flood at Colorado Springs was washed out today.

Sweeps Homes Away

Two cloudburst flood waves pounded through Morrison last night after sweeping away scores of mountain homes in Bear Creek and Mount Vernon Canons and tumbling automobiles off the Bear Creek Canon highway.

Highway patrol officers said three bodies were identified as those of Thomas Glennan, former Denver county jail warden, his wife and their grandchild. The other was that of Mrs. Cecil Goodrich, Evergreen real estate operator.

Mrs. Kathleen Boyd, 30, died of a skull fracture after an automobile driven by her husband, Dr. Walter M. Boyd, 35, of Louisville, Colo., plunged into a flood-cut gash in a highway east of Louisville.

Dr. Boyd, seriously injured, twice dived into the water but could not reach his wife.

Many people narrowly escaped being swept away by Bear Creek's torrent, which rose swiftly after a cloudburst in the mountains west of Morrison.

PROCESSING TAXES MAY BE TAKEN UP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Agriculture department officials said today the administration was considering placing processing taxes near the top of its legislative program for the next session of congress in an effort to bolster the national farm income.

Such taxes would raise revenue for increased benefit payments to formers, they said.

The extent to which the administration will press for action on processing taxes will depend largely, officials said, on the support price-fixing proposals muster among farmers and members of congress between now and next January, when congress meets.

The taxes would be at rates designed, officials said, to raise between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 annually. They would be levied on manufacturers or processors of cotton, tobacco, rice, field corn, wheat and synthetic fibers.

The rates under consideration are about as follows: Cotton, 3 cents a pound; flour, 50 cents a hundred pounds; rice, 50 cents a hundred pounds; manufactured corn products, about 30 cents a hundred pounds: cigarettes, from 6 to 10 cents a thousand; cigars, from 4 to 30 cents a thousand.

Similar rates were proposed in a bill introduced at the last session of congress by Senator Pope (D. Idaho), since defeated for renomination. Although endorsed in general by Wallace, the measure made no progress.

Officials said this was due largely to the fact it came up late in the session.

BULLITT CHEERED IN PEACE TALK

BORDEAUX, France, Sept. 3.—United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt caused a sensation at a city hall banquet here tonight by declaring France and the United States were "indefectively united in war as in peace."

The ambassador's extemporaneous speech was cheered by foreign minister, George Bonnet and other government officials present.

Bullitt, who was not scheduled to speak, followed Bonnet who had declared he and Premier Edouard Daladier were doing their utmost to preserve peace "throughout the current crisis over German aims in Czechoslovakia."

France and the United States, Bullitt said, "are united by our devotion to liberty, democracy and peace. We are united by our old friendship, by the aid we brought each other in our hour of distress. Today we are working together to save peace.

"At this time, the unity and calm with which France contemplates the future has awakened the admiration of the world.

"It is no secret the people of the United States have a most profound sympathy today for the people of France."

The banquet was a prelude to Franco-American festivities Sunday at Verdun where a monument will be dedicated commemorating participation in the world war.

LOWER BRACKET FAMILY AVERAGE INCOME OF $471

Estimate of Total National Income Of $59,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was informed today that his oft-mentioned "ill housed, ill fed and ill clothed" one-third of the nation averages a family income of about $471 a year.

At the other end of the income ladder, the national resources committee told him, family incomes from $10,000 up into the millions are received by less than one per cent of the population.

The committee reported these estimates to the chief executive in transmitting a special study of consumer incomes in 1935-36. It was the first such study to appear since 1929.

In round numbers, the authors reported, the poorest one-third of the nation—13,000,000 families and individual consumers—shared one-tenth ($5,900,000,000) of the national income, or about the same amount as went to the richest one-half of one per cent.

The lower bracket, to which Mr. Roosevelt frequently has referred as one of the chief economic concerns of his administration, is not a distinct or unusual group, the report found. Rather, it said, it includes all types of consumers, living in all types of communities, and belonging to all the major occupational groups.

In 1935-36, it contributed almost 4,000,000 persons to relief rolls at some times during the year. The remaining 9,000,000 largely on farms, were in wage earning occupations, and received no assistance of any kind.

Income Fifty-Nine Billion

The report estimated the average income of all the nation's families at $1,622 and the average for all single individuals at $1,151. This was based, it said, on an estimated total national income of approximately $59,000,000,000.

Average income for farm and wage earning families ranged from $1,259 to $1,289; for the salaried business group, about $4,200; and for the independent professional group, about $6,700.

However, the report added, "the average income for the poorest third (of total population)—that is, the mean income of the poorest 13,000,000 families and single individuals—was $471. For the middle third, with incomes of $750 to $1,450, the average was $1,076. For the highest one-third with incomes ranging from $1,450 to more than $1,000,000, the average was $3,000."

The mean average of family incomes varied by regions from a low of $1,326 in the south (13 states from Delaware down to Mississippi(Alabama and Florida) to a high of $1,210 for the New England states.

The committee commented:

"Any attempt on the part of government or business to grapple with basic economic problems must rely heavily on what can be learned of the distribution of income among the various groups of the nation's consumers.

"If this purchasing power (consumer income) had been divided equally among the family units it would have meant in income of $1,622 for each family. Actually, more than 4,000,000 families received incomes of less than $500; a very few received incomes of more than $1,000,000. The bulk of the families were concentrated in income classes just above and below $1,000."

The average (mean) income in the metropolis was $2,784 for the year, while the average on the farm was $1,259.

Officials described the report as the most complete picture ever presented of the division of the national income among the American people. It is the first to appear since the Brookings Institution estimates for the year 1929, published in "America's Capacity to consume."

As used in the report, "income" means money income from all sources plus money value of the occupancy of owned homes and of rent received as pay, of home grown food and other farm products used by the family.

AUTONOMOUS STATE FOR JEWS PROPOSED

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Establishment of an autonomous state in lower California for Jewish refugees was proposed today by Dr. Bruno Burn, economist and author, in a letter to former president Herbert Hoover, who was asked to head the enterprise.

Dr. Burn suggested the territory be purchased from Mexico, an American resettlement corporation organized and a loan floated with the aid of governments whose refugees are involved.

GERMAN TROOPS ALL ALONG THE FRENCH BORDER

Move Into The New Siegfried Chain of Fortifications

METZ, France, Sept. 3.—German troops, believed to number between 50,000 and 60,000, moved today into the Reich's new Siegfried chain of fortifications facing France's steel and concrete Maginot line.

Frenchmen in the frontier regions were calm as generally accepted reports said the German troops were strong along the entire French-German border from Luxembourg to Kehl, opposite Strasbourg.

French officers said the 50,000 to 60,000 figure was the "normal garrison" for fortifications such as Germany has erected along the French frontier.

Although Germany tightened control of her side of the frontier, reports reaching France indicated all the troops were units of the regular army.

(In Berlin no information was available concerning such troop movements.)

Tank detachments rumbled along roads of the Saar Basin to garages especially built as part of the defense line, travellers said. Motorized and foot infantry could be seen from several points on the frontier moving along border roads in Germany territory.

Reports reaching French border towns said automobile owners of Olenburg and the Saar Basin had been instructed to register their autos and trucks with military authorities.

Is Natural Move

French officers said this was a natural move in any defended frontier zone enabling the high command in case of emergency to requisition all trucks and cars needed.

Since Adolf Hitler appeared at Kehl Aug. 28 and inspected work on the new fortifications down to a point opposite Basle, Switzerland, inhabitants of the French side had been expecting German troops to move into the new military works.

If the maximum figure of 60,000 men covers all the German troops manning the Siegfried line, it is far less than the 100,000 which ordinarily occupy France's Maginot line.

Furthermore French forces temporarily have been increased since Sept. 1 as the result of movement of the new 1938 class of raw conscripts into army garrisons to begin their regular two year service.

Until they become "acclimated" the new conscripts' terms will overlap those of the retiring conscripts, thus temporarily raising France's army from a normal 706,000 to 825,000.

In Paris officials of the foreign office said they were "not surprised" by German troop movements, adding the French government would "simply wait and see what it means."

Strict Border Control

METZ, France, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Strict border control was clamped down on the Nazi side of the German-French frontier today as troops moved into Germany's new line of fortifications facing France.

French frontier observers and travelers estimated between 50,000 and 60,000 German troops had been sent in to occupy forts and barracks facing France's Maginot line of steel and concrete fortifications.

The movements were said to have occurred along the border from Luxembourg to Kehl, across the Rhine from Strasbourg.

YOUNG ARAB TO SAIL WITH BRIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A 17-year-old Missouri farm girl and her American-educated Arabian husband of a week, Nijib Toonie, plan to sail next week for Basra, Irag, but not to a harem, as the girl's parents feared, nor under the spell of some strange "love potion," as they suspicioned.

For a few days it didn't look as if they were going anywhere because the "G" men were looking for them. The "G" men started looking after the girl's father instituted Mann act charges against the youth and expressed apprehension life in a harem awaited his daughter. The girl's parents, too, had suspicion the quick courtship was aided by a magic "love potion."

The couple eloped to Centonville, Ark., August 24 and then started for New York. On the way they learned they were wanted. They walked into the Federal Bureau of Investigation here yesterday and surrendered.

U. S. Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter quickly dismissed the Mann act charges after Assistant Federal District Attorney John J. Dowling said the couple were legally married and the father's allegations were not supported.

The bride and groom left the federal building hand in hand and with much gaiety as Toonie explained "the only potion I gave Doris was a bottle of perfume, or maybe she smelled a bottle of my shaving lotion."

He added the charge he intended to establish his bride in a harem was "ridiculous," inasmuch as he is a Roman Catholic and "besides, we don't have harems in Iraq."

The bride disclosed she had never been away from Missouri before, "but I know I'm going to love Iraq."

Toonie, 27-year-old engineering graduate of the University of Michigan, is in charge of the Basro telephone system. The couple met through the wife of Toonie's brother, a former classmate of the bride.

NO SOLUTION OF AUTONOMY THUS FAR IS REACHED

lished reports that signatures were being solicited for such a document.

Some Sudeten leaders pointed out an appeal from the Germans of the Czechoslovak republic would provide a "moral justification" for Germany to apply a form of direct pressure on the Czechoslovak government.

It was recalled before the annexation of Austria by Germany, the then Nazi chancellor of Austria, Arthur Seysz-Inquart, had appealed for German troops "to preserve order." This had followed Berchtesgaden meetings between Hitler and Austrian leaders.

Praha remained calm, but an intensification of interest was apparent.

Lively Youngsters March

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 3.—Germans are on the march—from lively youngsters to husky, brown-shirted storm troopers—to rally around Chancellor Adolf Hitler in the tenth annual congress of the Nazi party at Nurnberg.

The congress will open Monday and will run for eight days during which the Reichsfuehrer will make several major speeches.

Tuesday will be marked by the reading of his keynoting proclamation that assumes special importance this year because of the possibility he may outline Germany's course of action in the dispute between Czechoslovakia and her Sudeten German autonomy-demanding minority.

Ever since July 16, the vanguard of some 45,000 members of the Hitler youth organization has been on its way to attend the party rally.

First to start was a group from Bergen, on the Baltic Sea island of Rugen, with 500 miles to cover. In Nurnberg a whole city of tents awaited them.

Among the youth are 9,000 boys from Austria who will be taking part in their first rally since Germany annexed their country last March 13.

In ancient Bamberg, the "little Venice" of Germany, 8,000 Hitler girls will be quartered, among them 900 from Austria.

The Hitler youth are not the only long distance marchers, however.

Brown Shirts Hike

From various sections of the county, brown shirted SA men insist on going to Nurnberg on foot, including contingents from Saxony and Bavaria.

But the bulk of the SA men, some 80,000 of them, including 6,500 Austrians, will come here in special trains.

Another outstanding group will be the 150,000 political organizers distributed over the entire country. Among them will be 10,000 Austrians.

These organizers are the party wheel horses who do the daily work. Upon them, more than upon anybody else, Hitler relies for perpetuating his ideas. There always are more of them invited to the party rally than of any other group.

To house all these contingents, 22 tent cities have been erected in the vicinity of Nurnberg. More than 2,600 huge tents have been manufactured to house 346,000 persons in these communities.

Nurnberg throughout the party conclave will be a city of marching feet. Automobiles, except official cars, must detour or park far outside the confines of the city.

APPEAL MADE TO KIDNAPERS TO MAKE CONTACT

W. R. Meeks Issues It Hoping To Secure Wife's Release

YUBA CITY, Calif., Sept. 3.—William R. Meeks tonight issued an "appeal to kidnapers" of his 55-year-old wife saying he feared to contact them because of publicity and asking them to arrange a new means of contact.

The statement, designated for newspaper publication, said:

"Appeal to Kidnapers—Afraid to contact due to publicity. Arrange new contact. Lines clear. Awaiting.

"(Signed) W. R. Meeks."

Meeks did not amplify the statement.

Several hours previously the official hunt for the missing woman was brought to a standstill and shortly thereafter Meek said law enforcement agencies had retired from the picture to permit him to contact the abductors and try to meet their demands, which he said was for $15,000 by midnight tonight.

District attorney Loyd Hewitt, acting as spokesman for the family, denied at a press conference the kidnapers had set midnight for the ransom deadline, as reported previously from several sources.

Some of the questions and Hewitt's answers were:

Q. Has there been any contact with the kidnapers? A. No.

Q. Is the $15,000 ransom ready? A. It will be, if necessary.

Q. Has any contact been attempted, either by the Meeks or the abductors? A. No.

Q. Are the citizens of Marysville attempting to raise the ransom sum? A. No.

Free To Negotiate

The abrupt withdrawal of justice department agents and 120 national guardsmen from the case late last night was followed a few hours later by a statement from Meeks, a well-to-do orchardist, he had requested their retirement in order to have a free opportunity to negotiate.

A conference at the Meeks home among Sheriff Bert Ullery, Hewitt and the orchardist also preceded the statement.

Almost simultaneously, dust samples reported taken from Meeks' automobile, which figured in the woman's disappearance, were found to be of a peculiar type that might offer a clue.

N. J. Pieper, field agent of the federal bureau of investigation, explained the withdrawal of justice department agents only by saying there was "no evidence, thus far, of the violation of any federal law."

The national guardsmen previously had been called off on the ground the justice department was taking care of the case.

The hunt for Mrs. Meeks began shortly after the orchardist telephoned officers late Thursday night two men had invaded his home, bound his wife and himself and then carried her off in his automobile.

The automobile was found a few hours later in Marysville, 12 miles north of the Meeks ranch. In it were Mrs. Meeks' purse and glasses.

Yuba County Farm Advisor Merle D. Collins reported the dust from Meeks' car included varieties from the Sierra foothills as well as from the river bottoms, indicating the machine may have gone much farther than the 12 miles between the ranch and Marysville.

LANDS PLANE OF "GASSED" PILOT

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 3.—A 17-year-old high school student today dragged an unconscious airplane pilot from the controls of his falling ship and, at 12,000 feet, took over and safely landed the ship.

Pilot Alfred Nison, 25, was overcome by gas fumes in his glass-enclosed forward cockpit. Milburn Gergely, riding in the rear cockpit, investigated the plane's gyrations, saw Nison slumped over the controls.

The youth battered the glass covering with a wrench, dragged Nison to one side and disengaged the controls, switching them to the rear set. The plane dropped dizzily for 1,500 feet as Gergely teetered across the 4-foot space separating the cockpits.

The youth had little flying experience, witnesses said, but managed to land the plane near Nison's farm.

Gergely is Greensburg district representative for a flying school (St. Joseph's Flying School of St. Joseph, Mo.) he had attempted to sell Nison parts for the new airplane.

Spectators said Nison's young wife rushed up to the lad, after the landing, threw her arms around him and kissed him.

Both men were treated for shock. The plane was not damaged.

After the death of his sister, Drusilla, the Roman emperor, Caligula, declared a season of public mourning during which dining with one's family, laughing, and bathing were forbidden under pain of death.

BUDGE AND RIGGS DEFEAT AUSTRALIAN DAVIS CUPPERS

AMERICANS SEEM SURE OF KEEPING COVETED TROPHY

Bromwich Makes Gallant Stand Against No. 1 Ranking Budge

BOBBY RIGGS WINS OVER ADRIAN QUEST

U. S. Team Needs Only Doubles Victory To Retain Cup

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Austria's Davis Cup team was about 15,000 miles from home tonight and more than twice that far from possession of the big silver bowl that stands as the glittering emblem of world team tennis supremacy.

The Aussies, despite a gallant stand by young Jack Bromwich against the mastery of Don Budge found themselves hopelessly routed. Budge and the truculent Bobby Riggs, who signalized his Davis Cup career by upsetting the veteran Adrian Quist with surprising ease, had two points stacked away for America in the opening singles.

Thus, the weary campaigners from "down under" faced the rather impossible task of sweeping the doubles and two remaining singles to capture the trophy.

Riggs Triumphs

Riggs, drawn against the experienced Quist, second ranking star of the world, simply dusted his foe off the pockmarked grass courts, 4-6, 6-9, 8-6, 6-1. Bromwich, regarded as a soft sacrifice to the world's amateur master, fought almost two full hours before Budge rallied and whipped him, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5. And as the awkward young Australian lost the last three games and final set the crowd gave him a great ovation.

After Riggs had polished off Quist, and Budge had won the first two sets against Bromwich under wraps, the crowd became bored. Hundreds left for the exits.

None of them expected anything but a Budge triumph in straight sets and the decisive victory tomorrow when Budge and Mako square off in the doubles probably against Quist and Bromwich, whom they trimmed in straight sets in the nationals last week at Brookline.

Budge Seems Bored

Budge, too, seemed to be bored. But it wasn't long before he found himself only a set ahead and losing another five games to four with set point three times within Bromwich's grasp. Budge was forced to make one of his strongest rallies and it was just good enough. He saved the fourth and final set by winning three straight games, two of which went to deuce a total of seven times.

The strain of ten months of competitive tennis around the world, told on Quist suddenly after the first set. The Australian rallied to make a fight of it in the third, but Riggs, after tossing the set point away six different times, finally broke through to win the set and go ahead. All the while it looked as if he could have ended that set several games earlier.

The final was a Riggs runaway. Quist's forehand, weak all afternoon, collapsed utterly.

After his match, the veteran Vinnie Richards, ex-cup star, said: "Riggs is almost equal to Budge today. If Don has a bad day at Forest Hills, Bobby will beat him."

After tomorrow's doubles, which may settle it all, two singles matches remain with Budge pitted against Quist and Bromwich against Riggs. And though Budge wasn't himself today, he still looks able to take Quist any time, anywhere, under any conditions.

STATE WOMEN'S GOLF TITLE WON BY SARA GUTH

St. Louisan Defeats Georgia Dexheimer at St. Joseph

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 3.—Miss Sara Guth, willowy, 24-year-old St. Louis sharpshooter who twice had advanced to the threshhold of the Missouri women's golf championship only to be turned back by Mrs. Opal S. Hill, today crashed the portals with a smashing 12 to 10 victory over blonde Miss Georgia Dexheimer, also of St. Louis, in the 36-hole finals of the fourth annual tournament.

With Mrs. Hill, who did not defend her title, as a spectator, Miss Guth gave an astonishing exhibition of long driving and accurate iron play to overwhelm her less experienced and somewhat nervous opponent.

Miss Dexheimer, who won medal honors with an 81, two over par, and had been close to that figure in earlier matches, was 14 over perfect figures today. Miss Guth was only two over par for the morning round and even par for the eight holes this afternoon.

Had Miss Dexheimer's putting been up to her usual standard, her defeat would not have been so crushing, but it nevertheless would have been a defeat. She could not match Miss Guth's long game. On the par six holes Miss Guth would be on with two woods and an iron. Miss Dexheimer often would be short with three woods. It was the same story on other holes, with Miss Guth rarely missing a green and usually putting her ball inside that of her opponent.

The first four holes of the morning round left no doubt as to the eventual outcome. Miss Guth took each of the four, the second with a birdie and the others with pars.

From that point on, Miss Dexheimer doggedly battled against the inevitable, but when she did get chances to win or somettimes halve holes, she tightened up and was far short with an approach putt or missed a short one.

ALUMNI GROUP ON ATHLETICS NAMED

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 13.—Appointment of six members of the University of Missouri alumni advisory committee on inter-collegiate athletics was announced today by Byron Spencer, Kansas City, president of the University Alumni Association.

They are: J. Harrison Brown, Mexico, Mo.; Eddie Klein, St. Louis; Don C. McVay, Trenton; Paul H. Shepard, Mountain Grove; Clif Langsdale, Kansas City; and William Becker, Columbia.

Dr. John S. Knight, Kansas City, is the seventh alumni committee member. Student members of the committee will be named after the opening of school, Spencer said.

HIGH SCHOOL TO BEGIN FOOTBALL PRACTICE MONDAY

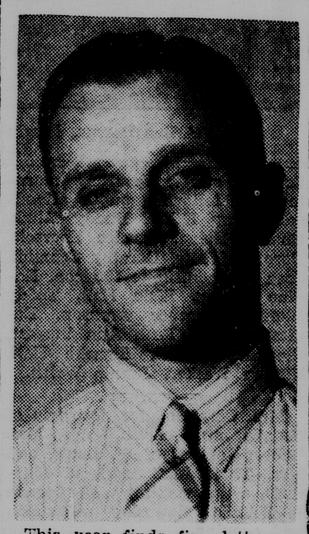

Coach Donald Davenport Expects 100 Boys Will Report

TO OPEN SEASON AT MARSHALL SEPT. 30

Five Lettermen Return To Team; Were Not First String Players

Football workouts will begin Monday afternoon for those boys who are able to report to Coach Donald Davenport at 3 o'clock that afternoon, while the entire squad is expected to be under way Tuesday afternoon, at which time more than 100 boys are expected to be on the gridiron fighting against elimination.

Coach Davenport, Saturday in discussing the possibilities of a championship team for 1938, announced he expected to have his team composed of practically entirely new material in shape by the time of the opening game on Friday, September 30, at Marshall.

This year finds five lettermen returning for equipment, Bob Wild, Marion Meyer, Charles McCord, Tommy Sanders and Connie Michaelis. These men were not considered the first string regulars of last year, but have had the experience to give them an "edge" over the youngsters.

Michaelis, although expected to report, might not be able to continue his football career because of an injury of last year. Michaelis is a valuable player and if he is unable to report will not make the coaching staff feel any too hot.

However, regardless of the lettermen, the 1938 team will be built from the foundation up and is expected to be an entirely new learned squad. In 1937 the team more-or-less depended upon two or three players and when injuries and when one player dropped out of the football career, the team as a whole was practically wrecked.

Coach Davenport in discussing the problem announced he hoped to have at least two to three players for every line position while he is expecting to have two complete backfields on hand at all times "just in case of need."

More than $500 worth of new equipment has been added to equipment purchased last year, through the generosity of the board of education. Among the equipment are sixteen hooded capes, to be used by the players while on the bench and in bad weather. This alone is one of the best additions made to the equipment. Also purchased were sixteen pairs of new football practice pants, twelve pairs of playing pants, giving Coach Davenport equipment for more than twenty-two regular players, sixteen practice jerseys, and other pieces of smaller but needed equipment.

The gridiron at the high school is in the best condition it has been in for more than five years. Previous years of dry weather had more than baked the ground in the gridiron and made it bad for practice, but the good weather conditions experienced in the past few weeks and the rains which fell the past week have helped the grass and softened the earth considerable. There is more grass on the field this year than there has been since the gridiron was laid out after Smith-Cotton high school was built.

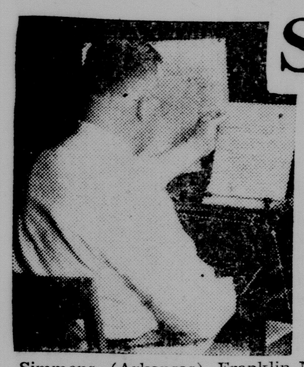

COLORED BOOSTERS MEET WARRENSBURG HERE TODAY

The Negro Missouri Pacific Boosters, undefeated in their last seven starts, will meet the Warrensburg Athletics this afternoon on the local diamond. Monday they will play the Junior Kansas City Monarchs at Hubbard Park. The Boosters are having an all-day free picnic on that day.

SCRUTON'S

SPORT SCRAPS

SINGLES—DOUBLES—TRIPLES

SIX-MAN FOOTBALL seems to be sweeping the country in the smaller schools, high schools such as has Houstonia, Hughesville, Green Ridge, LaMonte, and others of those types. It supplants the eleven-man game which schools of the county high schools class cannot always furnish. Otherwise the county has gone football, either in a big way or on a small scale.

Rules have been drafted and an Official Rules Committee appointed. The Rules Committee is composed of the following men and their respective states: Conrad Orr, (Montana), L. F. Rice, (North Dakota) Winton Simmons, (Arkansas), Franklin M. Reck (Michigan), W. H. Roselius, (Nebraska), P. F. Neverman, (Wisconsin), while a New Yorker handles the big seat as chairman, Stephen Epler.

The rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association or of the National Federation Interscholastic Football Rules Committee, shall govern six-man football except when they conflict with the six-man rules. When the eleven-man rules conflict with the six-man-rules, then the six-man rules shall apply.

In this type of game more passing will be displayed, and not like the eleven-man game, where only specified men can handle a pass, all six-men are elgible to take a pass from any player. As a matter of fact there will be much more scoring in this type of a game than in the eleven-man contest, and it has been told by coaches and rules makers that as far as roughness is concerned, the game does not get down to real technical roughness until the last few minutes of play and then there is plenty of action.

We Missourians must be SHOWN, and I suppose we will have a great opportunity to see just what it's like this season, with many of the schools taking on this new athletic event.

Coach Donald Davenport has declared himself as to the Smith-Cotton High school eleven for 1938, and from his declaration, Sedalia football fans are in for some good gridiron entertainment this fall. There will be an eleven man ball club with eleven to eighteen substitutes who are just as good as the first string, at least those are the desires of Davenport.

The coaching staff will be headed by Davenport with Joe Benson and Jimmy Obermiller as assistants. The three have had some real college football experience and their knowledge of the game should prove a big benefit for the football students.

Suits will be issued out at 3 o'clock Monday, the spring training students being given preference, while those boys who desire to report will be taken care of immediately. Real practice will probably not get underway until Tuesday, but that afternoon will find plenty of action on the gridiron.

We met William "Wheels" Henry Harrison, colored, custodian of the Speed Department at the Missouri State Fair during the past fair week, and a real custodian he is.

Wheels for many years has been in the employ of Charles E. Tieman judge of the races, and for many years has been a yearly visitor of the fair.

At the fair, he assists E. A. Duensing, superintendent of the Speed Department.

A certain sportsman of Sedalia recently made a 2,200 mile journey which took him to Colorado and the Rocky Mountain National Park, where he went-a-fishing. A $3 license was purchased, a creel basket likewise was obtained, when he saw other "fishermen" having them over their shoulder, he went-a-fishing in the Rocky Mountain Natonal Park, so he says he was rewarded with a six-inch rainbow trout, which of course he tossed back.

Another fisherman, who went north to do some fishing forgot his necessary equipment to do fishing as well as forgetting other necessary equipment which make a fishing journey a success.

The scheduled baseball game of the Sedalia A's has been called off for today. The team however is making arrangements for a game to be played next Sunday on the local diamond.

This afternoon the Dixcel Gas club is taking on some competition in the Glasgow Merchants at Glasgow.

And STILL the Sedalia baseball fans are waiting for the "OLD TIMERS" baseball game as has been discussed in the past few weeks. We still believe this would make a good game, with plenty of entertainment.

Smithton is likewise waiting for the chance to take on the Sedalia A's in a game, and we are also wondering just when this game is going to be played.

BOOSTERS LOSE IN SOFTBALL TOURNEY

The Missouri Pacific Boosters, Sedalia District Champions of Softball, were sent home Saturday night by the Goetz Brewing Co., Softball Champions of St. Joseph, in a state tournament game 7 to 0.

Hayes was on the mound for the Boosters with Satterwhite behind the plate. The Goetz battery was Young and Holcomb.

The St. Jaseph Andersons went into the semi-finals of the girls' division on a default from a Hannibal team that had one member killed and seven injured in a motor car accident near Moberly, Mo., late this afternoon, while the St. Joseph Mokins, defending champions in the men's play, edged out the Kirksville team, 3 to 1.

GHEZZI AND HOGAN LEAD AT HERSHEY

HERSHEY, Pa., Sept. 3.—Paul Runyan, the national professional champion, and Slamming Sammy Snead couldn't down Vic Ghezzi and Ben Hogan today in the Hershey Round-Robin, best-ball golf tourney.

They finished their match even and left Ghezzi, of Deal, N. J., and Hogan, White Plains, N. Y., pro, with an eight-point lead and only 36 holes to play tomorrow.

Runyan and Snead were lucky to get a draw. They won the last hole with par three because both Ghezzi and Hogan blew up and missed two short putts.

The champion and his East Virginia partner fell into a second place tie with Byron Nelson, of Readings, Pa., and Ed Dudley, of Philadelphia.

BOMBING PLANES TO MAKE FLIGHT TO HONOLULU

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Seventeen bombing planes of patrol squadron four, United States navy, will take off for Honolulu next Wednesday, it was announced today.

The hop was described as "a routine delivery of new equipment to the fleet air base, Pearl Harbor."

The bombers will carry a total of 119 officers and men.

GIRL KILLED AS AN AUTO OVERTURNS

MOBERLY, Mo., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Marie James, member of a Hannibal, Mo., softball club, was killed today when the auto in which she was riding to the state softball tournament at St. Joseph overturned.

Eight other club members were injured. The car blew a tire.

Marcellea Creedin was reported in a critical condition at a hospital here. With her in the hospital were Virginia and Maydene Smith and Mrs. Kenneth Nickason, sisters, and Dan Wissinger.

Kenneth Nickason, Lillian Griffith and Illa Fisher were treated for minor hurts.

FIVE LOSE LIVES IN AN AUTO CRASH

COVENTRY, VT., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Five St. Johnsbury youths bound for a pre-holiday dancing party at Newport, tonight met death and a sixth was injured seriously as their automobile crashed through a highway guard rail at a curve, struck a tree and burst into flames.

The dead: Netchy Handy, Charles Henault, Richard Clothey Normand Derusha, and Merton McGill.

In a critical condition was Harold Goldstein, also of St. Johnsbury.

All were between 20 and 25 years of age.

Is The Victim of Shooting Trap for Burglar

ATLANTA, Sept. 13.—(AP)—For protection, D. W. Goodby, 70, rigged up a rifle on a wall of his lonely rural home so it would shoot any marauder who opened his door.

Today he was found dead of a bullet wound in his front yard. A coroner's jury held he was the accidental victim of his burglar trap.

VIEWS FILMING SCENES IN JESSE JAMES MOVIE

Ed. Mater, of Liberty Theatre, Visits Tyrone Power at Cabin

Ed Mater, manager of the Liberty theatre, who with his wife and daughter, Jane Ann, went to Pineville Friday to watch some of the scenes being made for the movie Jesse James, was most fortunate in having an opportunity to visit with Tyrone Power and Henry Fonda, as well as other actors in the picture.

Mr. Mater said that because of the crowds that are at Pineville it is very difficult to get on the set, and only those are permitted there who have special passes.

Mr. Mater, being an employe of the Fox company, was taken onto the set by James Denton, the publicity director. He watched Henry King, director, direct the scene where the new train pulls into "St. Louis" which scene was done over four times, once because the crowd watching the arrival of the train was too placid, the second time because one of the spectators turned and looked into the camera, and the third because a child became ill and had to be taken from the set. King, seeing the man turn and look into the camera, suggested that he act like he really was surprised and said," Act like you are telling that child next to you how little you know about that train." One man was called off the set because he was wearing gloves with gauntlets on them. In those days gauntlets were not worn, and it was necessary to cut them off.

"Delightful Personality"

Mr. Mater was taken to Tyrone Power's cabin early Saturday morning and visited a half hour there with him. He stated that he is really more handsome than his picture, has a most delightful personality, and is wonderfully kind to everyone he meets.

"Don't think those folks don't work hard," said Mr. Mater. "They start to work about 5 o'clock in the morning, and really work hard all day. It was very warm, and the sun with the bright lights used in making the pictures, make it doubly so, he said.

Mr. Mater was very complimentary of the directing of Mr. King. He knows how every detail should be, he said, directs in a kindly way, injects humor into his remarks, but really "gets the job done."

"Mr. King," said Mr. Mater, "is the finest director in Hollywood, and the technical men on the set are hand-picked, the camera man being Frank Barnes, one of the best. There is actually $250,000 in cash being spent in Missouri in the making of the scenes here."

BUT ONE REGULAR FROM 1927 TEAM

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Only one regular from last year's Central Missouri State Teachers College football team will return this fall, Coach Carl Voltmer said today.

Seven 1937 lettermen are returning but Argyle Wakeman, who was named on the MIAA all-conference team at end, is the only regular. The lettermen are Walter Carr, William Courter and Paul Kapke, tackles; Tom Kenney and Julius Blanke, halfbacks, and Jack Van Hook, center.

The schedule:

Sept. 16—Practice scrimmage with Wentworth here.

Sept. 23—Tarkio, there.

Sept. 29—Kansas Wesleyan, there.

Oct. 7—Central College, here.

Oct. 14—Cape Girardeau Teachers, here.

Oct. 29—Springfield Teachers, there.

Nov. 4 — Maryville Teachers, there.

Nov. 11 — Kirksville, here (homecoming).

Nov. 18—Rolla, there.

THIRTEEN FIGURES IN TEAM AT CAPE

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Coach Emmett R. (Abe) Stuber of the Cape Girardeau Teachers can't be blamed if he is a mite superstitious about the coming football season.

His teams have won 13 consecutive games in the last two years. And he has only four regulars from 1937 around whom to build his 1938 eleven. Ten members of the undefeated, untied M. I. A. A. champions of last year were graduated.

So the gloomy Stuber probably regards that 13-game winning streak is an unlucky portent.

That 13 crops up again when Stuber counts 13 reserves of last year available.

Regulars of last year who will return are Chester Conrad, Olen Wright and Marion Snider, all guards, and Bill Kies, an end.

Practice begins Monday. There will be two workouts daily for a week.

The schedule:

Sept. 30—Southern Illinois Normal in Carbondale, Ill.

Oct. 7—Hendrix (Ark.) College in Cape Girardeau.

Oct. 14.—Warrensburg at Warrensburg.

Oct 21—Kirksville in Cape Girardeau.

Oct. 29—Missouri School of Mines in Rolla.

Nov. 4—Southern Illinois Normal in Cape Girardeau.

Nov. 11—Maryville Teachers in Maryville.

Nov. 18—Springfield Teachers in Cape Girardeau.

Stagehand Winner At Narragansett

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 3.—Uncorking the same burst of speed that enabled him to nip Seabiscuit in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap last winter, Col. Maxwell Howard's Stagehand today came from behind to capture the $25,000 added Narragansett special before a crowd of 35,000 at Narragansett park.

Stagehand finished a length ahead of the Calumet Farms' Bull Lea, covering the mile and three-sixteenths route in 1:56.1 before the delighted eyes of his owner.

Returning $4.30 on a $2 win ticket, the Earl Sande-trained horse added $26,300 to his purse earning to bring the total for the year to $184,050.

Bull Lea paid $9.40 to place, while Townsend B. Martin's Cravat, in show position three lengths behind Bull Lea, paid $6.40. Mrs. E. Denemark's Finance was fourth.

DIXCELS PLAY AT GLASGOW MONDAY

The Dixcel Oilers on Labor Day will journey to Glasgow, where they will play the Merchants ball club of the river town. It will be the Oilers' first game for nearly three weeks and they feel the vacation period and rest will give their players pep to come back for a hot contest with Glasgow.

The Merchants' team is considered one of the strongest the Sedalia club has met this season. They have an array of pitchers to be used if necessary, but the starting twirler has not been announced. The pitchers available are: Blackwell, Kivett and Getz with Evans handling the work behind the plate.

Manager Seigel will use Sullivan for the starting mound work with relief coming from either Paul Miner or Simon, if necessary. O. Simon will do the receiving.

Players to make the trip are: McFatrich, Barge, Lobaugh, J. Taylor, Knoop, E. Taylor, Kaullen and Harlan with Manager Seigle and the mentioned pitchers and catchers.

Anything to sell? Somebody wants whatever it is. A For Sale Ad will get you together Phone 1000.

GOLDEN GLOVES WORKOUTS GET UNDERWAY HERE

Lawrence N. Englund Will Have Full Charge of Training Program

FIRE DEPARTMENT AIDS THE BOXERS

Entries Are Being Made Faster This Year Than Before

GOLDEN GLOVE interest for 1938-39 is showing much increase although the amateur season in reality does not open up for nearly two months. To date the entries have been made faster than in the past two years.

Lawrence N. Englund, well known police officer has been nominated by the Democrat-Capital, sponsors of the Golden Gloves to have full charge of the coaching and training of amateur boxers desiring to undergo their training at the quarters at Fire Station No. 2 on South Kentucky avenue. Through the courtesy of Mayor Julian Babgy, the Fire and Water Committee, Frank Hugelman, chairman, Atwell Bohling and H. S. Barman, two rooms at the station have been made available.

Fire Chief John Lueck, and his firemen, likewise have been working to make the quarters satisfactory to handle such a group of young fighters-to-be.

Since the fair week vacation more entries have been received, and more boys have reported for instructions. In each incident the boy entering has made it clear he desires to get the early training and be prepared for the district tournament to be held in Sedalia and if crowned champion be in condition to "clip" these champions from other districts participating in the Kansas City tournament sponsored by the Kansas City Star.

To Award Trophies

To stimulate more desire to enter into the fistic sport the Democrat-Capital is obtaining trophies to be given each class champion, likewise medals to the runners-ups, while in addition the CHAMPION is also equipped with his trunks and jacket, in the colors designated by the newspaper.

Not only is attention being given the sport in Sedalia, but already several surrounding communities have contacted the district sponsors as to entering the Sedalia tournament, and it is expected before November rolls by there will be training camps in Boonville, Lexington, Marshall, California, Warrensburg, Clinton, Houstonia, Sweet Springs, and numerous smaller places. Boys who do begin training at these places are requested to fill out the Golden Glove entry blank found on this page and mail to D. Kelly Scruton, sports editor, of the Democrat-Capital, and become listed as probable participants in the local bouts, although belonging to various training camps.

Kemper to Enter

It is probable the Kemper Military Academy at Boonville, will have a team entered in the local competition the same as did Wentworth Military Academy from Lexington. It is understood that at Wentworth the boys will be given more training and given more ring experience than those who came to Sedalia last winter.

Before the month is out it is expected that more than seventy-five per cent of the boys in the 1937-38 tournament will be entered, while the new material will far overshadow that of the previous year.

Among those who have already signed are: Everett Burchfield, Thomas Burlingame, Samuel LeRoy Bouton, Thomas "Tommy" Craig, John C. DeJarnette, Cecil Landers, LeRoy Laughlin, Denver "Buck" Miller, Dean Murray, Walter Martin, Raymond "Bud" Martin, Ora "Oats" Mozingo, Gerald Nicholson, Freeman Paxton, Raymond "Ray" Styles, Paul "Will" Williams, Robert "Bob" Williams, James "Chow" Wright.

NEW PLAN OF CONDUCTING HIGH SCHOOL CAGE MEET

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—A new plan for conducting the 1939 Missouri state high school basketball tournament, with champions being selected in both division A and division B finals, was announced today by the State High School Athletic Association.

Adopted by the association's board of control, the plan will separate the larger schools of the state from the smaller in the annual basketball event. Eight teams will participate in the class A final tournament and 16 in the class B.

SOCIETY and WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Jas. E. Norlin Marries Miss Vivian Buckley

Miss Vivian Buckley, of Kansas City, formerly of Sedalia, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Buckley, and James E. Norlin, assistant cashier of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company, were married at a quiet wedding ceremony at 6:30 o'clock Saturday night, by the Rev. A. W. Kokendoffer, pastor of the First Christian church, at his home, 908 South Ohio avenue. The single ring ceremony was used.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Kinley of Kansas City, and other witnesses were the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. O. B. Poundstone, Mr. Poundstone, their daughter, Miss Patricia, and Mrs. Kokendoffer.

After October 15 the couple will be at home at 1504 South Moniteau avenue.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Thursday evening at the First Methodist church when Miss Juanita Koenig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Koenig, and Mr. James Keenan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Keenan, were married.

The Rev. Quincy R. Wright, pastor of the First M. E. church, read the service in an impressive setting of southern smilax and gladoli, interspersed with burning ivory tapers. The aisle down which the bridal party proceded was also lighted with candles.

Miss Mabel DeWitt played Lieberstram, on the organ, and accompanied by Prof. Oswald Rahm, on the violin, sang "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life." Mrs. A. R. Beach sang "Calm is the Night," and "Because," Miss DeWitt played Mendelssonh's wedding march as a processional and Wagner's march, as a recessional.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a lovely floor length dress of blue lace over satin. It was made with a fullskirt, short bolero jacket and the jacket was made with a high neckline and buttoned down the front with tiny buttons. The waist was buttoned down the back with small buttons. The fingertip veil, of tulle, was held in place by a cluster of orange blossoms.

Her bouquet was a dainty arrangement of gladioli tied with peach tulle.

Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Loretta Koenig, who wore a floor length dress of pink net, trimmed in velvet, over taffeta. The bodice was fitted, topped by a short bolero. The skirt was very full, and she carried a bouquet of gladioli, tied with tulle and lavender satin ribbon.

Mrs. Koenig, mother of the bride, wore an attractive teal blue crepe, with brown accessories. Her corsage was of roses of a harmonizing color.

Mrs. Keenan, mother of the bridegroom, wore a handsome gown of aquamarine.

Lewis Sanders, of Sheridan, Mo., atended Mr. Keenan as best man. Ushers were Lynn Shelby and James Blue.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held for the bridal party and immediate friends. The Koenig home, on West Broadway, was attractively decorated with baskets of gladioli and garden flowers. In the dining room the table was covered with a lace cloth, centered by a three tier wedding cake, surrounded by a border of smilax. At each end of the table stood candlebra with lighted tapers.

Mrs. Keenan's going away attire consisted of a black costume suit of wool, trimmed in Persian lamb. Mustard colored accessories completed her smart ensemble.

The couple left for Columbia where they will reside.

Out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. James Thornton, Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. MacMitchell, Fayette.

Miss Ilah Monsees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Monsees of Smithton and Mr. Sheldon Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Smith, of Smithton, were married at the Methodist church at Smithton, Thursday evening. The Rev. E. I. LaRue officiated at the impressive ceremony in the presence of the immediate members of the two families.

A large bower of ferns provided a beautiful background for the tall altar candles in white candlebra and baskets of pink gladioli and other flowers.

Before the ceremony Miss Laura Kruse played extracts from Lohengrin's wedding march by Wagner and Mrs. Olen Monsees sang, "Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life," by Victor Herbert. The solo was followed by the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bridegroom entered, accompanied by his best man, Stanley Kahrs. The bridesmaid, Miss Pearl Ruth Bremer, wearing a dress of rust color with India brown accessories and a shoulder bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, preceded the bride.

Miss Monsees wore a dress of Boy Blue crepe, with chateu blue accessories and a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses. She was escorted to the altar by her father.

During the service "Dawning" by Cadman, was played softly on the organ.

A reception at the Monsees home followed the wedding. After the wedding cake had been cut in the traditional manner and congratulations extended, the couple left for their honeymoon.

The bride was an honor graduate of Smithton high school, and attended Central Business college. For the past two years she has been employed as a stenographer in Kansas City. She is an accomplished musician and participated in athletics, forensic and social activities while in school. She has a pleasing personality and is a favorite in her community.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Smithton high school and was prominent in athletics. He is a successful young farmer and has prepared a lovely home for his bride on a farm one mile south of Smithton.

TOY LOCOMOTIVE IS HOLIDAY SENSATION FOR QUINTS

(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Real travel being impossible for the Dionne quints these days, the advent of this locomotive at Dafoe nursery was a treat, as you can see by the way the quints are swarming over the model. It is an exact scale reproduction, one inch to the foot, of a modern Canadian National Railways giant. Annette looks very professional swinging the switchman's lantern as Cecile tries the engineer's goggles. Yvonne, Emilie and Marie want to know what makes it go; in fact, Marie seems to be trying to set the whole business in motion with a good strong push.

Scout Notes

Troop 60 went on a swimming party Friday 19th, at Walnut creek. Eight scouts and Scoutmaster Peak were present. All of the scouts went in swimming and our scoutmaster tried to teach some of the scouts to float. After our swim we ate our supper and then had a fire building contest. Each boy was given two matches to build his fire. Scoutmaster Peak judged the fires. Scout LeRoy Fry won the contest. After the fires were judged, some of the scouts roasted marshmallows over their fires. We then repeated the scoutmaster's benediction.

Jacque Cowherd, scribe.

Troop 56

We met in Washington Park with 14 scouts present. Mr. Morrow, scoutmaster, was in charge. We planned to go swimming Friday. We are trying to pass our swimming tests. Mr. Masters, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes and a friend were present. We were glad to have them and hope they will come again. We then played several games. Our next meeting will be at Washington school. We repeated the scoutmaster's benediction and were dismissed.

Maurice Silsby, scribe.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. How might a girl correctly accept a man's invitation to dance?
2. When a man stops for his date, is it all right for him to wait in his car until she is ready?
3. May a girl refuse to dance with one man and then give that same dance to another?
4. Is it good manners to smoke while dancing?
5. Should a man give a girl whom he has just started dating an expensive gift?

What would you do if—

You are a young man who has taken a girl to a club dance—

(a) Dance with other girls only when your date has a dance taken?

(b) Consider that taking her to and from the dance is your only responsibility, and let her take care of herself while she is there?

(c) Refuse to let her dance with anyone else?

Answers

1. By saying, "Thank you, I'd like to." Or "I'd love to."
2. No.
3. No. Not without being deliberately rude.
4. No.
5. No.

Special safety poster put out by the Automobile Club of Missouri in its sixth annual statewide ~~September~~ school opening safety program. Copies of this poster are being erected in cities and towns throughout the state on posts at the intersections of streets around schools and those carrying heavy traffic. City officials, police, school authorities, and civic organizations generally are being asked by the Club to participate in the campaign. The Auto Club says that prior to the establishment of the special September safety drive the month of September had been five times as hazardous for school children as during the preceding vacation months.

Library News

(By The Librarian)

New travel and history books in the Sedalia Public Library include:

Rio Grande by Harvey Fergusson. New Mexico, Mr. Fergusson believes, is the only section of our country in which the past has had a continuous existence down to the present time, and he has undertaken in this book to trace the various aspects of its life to their source.

The Horse and Buggy Doctor by Arthur E. Hertzler. Hertzler's story runs the gamut of a keen country doctor's observations over the past forty years, a period of transition in a pioneer country.

Out of Africa by Karen Blixen. A book unusually successful in conveying the atmosphere of a remote country; the style fluent and subtle.

The German Octopus by Henry C. Wolfe. What Hitler is doing in order to maintain his supremacy in Germany and to prepare for taking what he wants of countries in Central and Eastern Europe.

Let Me Show You New Hampshire by Mrs. Willa Shannon Bowles. A book widely inclusive, giving history, descriptions of villages and country, chapters on writers, the revival of handicrafts, and sports.

My Austria by Kurt Schuschnigg. This record of Austria's internal politics and social unrest is partly autobiographical.

The Lost Battalion by Thomas Marvin Johnson. A day-by-day account, based on official records and on American and German reports, of the five days during which several companies of American infantrymen, cut off from relief, were besieged by the Germans in Argonne forest.

James I of England by Clara Steeholm. A thorough, readable biography which characterizes the son of Mary of Scotland as an almost likable individual although a failure as king of England.

The Singin' Fiddler of Lost Hope Hollow by Mrs. Jeanette (Bell) Thomas. More stories of Kentucky mountaineers, particularly of Julson Setters, the fiddler, whose blindness was cured in middle age.

IF YOU THINK YOU KNOW YOUR VITAMIN A-B-C'S, CONSIDER THE SUBDIVISIONS

Since vitamins were first named A, B, C, D, and E, the average person is inclined to believe that each of these substances is something very defnite and associated with certain illnesses or states of health. However, today many of them have been broken down into several parts.

Very early it was established that vitamin B consists of at least two different substances, which were named B1 and B2 and later called B1 and G. These two factors were said specifically to be associated with the presence of a condition called polyneuritis and another condition called pellagra.

Now it is known that vitamin B has many different parts. The first, called B1, is the anti-beriberi vitamin that prevents beriberi in man and polyneuritis in animals. Another part is known as riboflavin, a compound necessary for growth in animals and believed to be associated with the oxidation-reduction system of living cells.

It has been found that there is another factor which is effective in the treatment of pellagra in man and black tongue in dog—a factor which is necessary for rapid gains in weight and the normal nutrition of pigeons. A vitamin tentatively called B4 prevents a form of specific paralysis in rats and chickens.

A portion called B5 is necessary to maintain weight in pigeons. A factor called B6 prevents a sort of skin disease which occurs in rats, and another factor has been temporarily called vitamin W—also absolutely necessary for growth in rats.

* * *

Only two of these factors have been shown definitely to be individual chemical substances. Only two have been found definitely important to deficiency diseases in man—namely, vitamin B1 which is the beriberi factor, and the PP factor which is associated with pellagra.

Nevertheless, the factor called riboflavin has also been found to be of exceeding importance of late in human beings, particularly in regard to certain nutritional disturbances that may arise in the presence of alcoholism, or in various conditions affecting the nervous system.

Because vitamin B1 is known to be definitely associated with beriberi and with polyneuritis, many tests have been made to determine whether or not this vitamin is of value in treating conditions in the human body in which neuritis is a factor.

The most important study was apparently that which revealed that alcholic addicts have symptoms of polyneuritis which are attributed to a lack of vitamin B1 rather than to any specific toxic that alcoholic addicts have symp- of the nervous system. Apparently the alcoholic person does not obtain a sufficient amount of this vitamin.

• RAISING A FAMILY

If your little boy went to school today in curls and kilts, the other children would laugh at him. They didn't laugh fifty years ago, however, because it was quite the thing for boys up to six to wear curls, and often skirts.

I don't know exactly when the patch went out of fashion. Sometime between the turn of the century and the boom of 1928 it got lost along the line. Before that children went about very happily with unmatching divots on their clothes, chunks of leather sewed over cracks in their shoes and darns as big as flapjacks in their stockings, to say nothing of knee-pads and copper-toes.

All have gone to the Land of Lost Things. If a child went to school today with all the sartorial salvage he used to take for granted, he would feel like a specimen from a museum. In fact, he probably wouldn't go at all. Which all goes to show that children don't mind too much what they wear, but they do mind being different. This, they can't stand. Nothing makes them more wretched than being out of line with the rest of the class.

If you have the impression that I discredit the worn and the mended, let me hurry to explain that nothing delights me more than to see little pants, shirts, sweaters and smocks having their lives prolonged and doing their utmost in this world. I hate waste and I love a good sense of salvage. Here's to the resourceful mother who can take in seams let them out and attend to coats. Who can darn, press and clean and then send her flock out with their heads up, neat, clean and as good as the next fellow.

- Wants Neatness, at Least

The way children are sent to school has so much to do with their success. Once the child is conscious that he is dirtier than he should be, he stops trying to be good and he won't study. It hardly ever fails. I've seen many a child suddenly retrieved by some sympathetic soul at home, or taken in hand at last by a converted mother, come marching into the room as though he owned it. And almost invariably, if the renaissance was permanent, lessons and behavior improved.

There has been a tendency in upper schools and some colleges to emulate the gutter. It's a pity to say the least. Shoes untied, socks dragging, sweaters shapeless and smelly. Children imitate their big brothers; I don't say sisters, for girls have gone the other way, mostly. The wise mother will do all she can to fight this carelessness, insist on hair-cuts and see that the family is tied up, at least.

The walking stick insect not only imitates a twig in shape, but color also. It gradually changes from green to brown as the green twig takes on the brown color of late summer.

A large department store occupies a 30-story building, and has a mezzanine floor and a featured scenic roof garden.

If a limited elevator which goes to the roof starts from the first sub-basement and stops at every other floor going up, and at every third floor coming down, except that it stops at the first floor instead of the mazzanine and goes no farther on the downward trip with passengers, at which floor does it stop with passengers both going up and coming down?

PHILATELY acquired a rare batch of covers from Howard Hughes' round-the-world flight. Officially, Mr. Hughes carried no covers, turned down more than 1500 requests by collectors for these postal specimens. But it is now revealed that he did carry several hundred covers "to provide souvenirs for those persons without whose aid and co-operation the flight would have been impossible."

Eventually some of these exclusive covers may get into the philatelic market and when they do they should prove relatively rare.

The U. S. Postoffice Department is planning to initiate a new experimental air mail service to rural points in which specially-equipped planes will pick up and deliver mail while in flight. Invitations for bids on four proposed routes have already been sent to airlines, will be opened Sept. 15. Such a plan if adopted widely would revolutionize air mail service.

WHEAT UNCHANGED IN SLOW MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Restricted by the Labor day holiday which North American markets will observe, uncertainty over governmental programs for wheat and the European situation, wheat did little more than mark time in the pit today.

After displaying an opening spurt of buying that lifted prices as much as ⅝ of a cent over the previous close, the market gave way to an indifferent tone that held values within about a one half cent range. At the close wheat was ¼ cent up to ¼ cent lower.

The stronger opening here was despite Liverpool's close at new lows for the fourth consecutive day and general weakness in foreign markets. Liverpool's lower quotations, however, were about as expected on the basis of action here Friday. The English market closed ⅝ to one cent off, in new low ground for the last three years. Winnipeg also fell into a new seasonal low.

Trading in Chicago was largely confined to spreading and evening up operations for over the extended week end.

At the close Chicago wheat was ¼ cent down to ¼ cent up, compared with yesterday's finish, September 62⅝c to 62½c, December 64⅛c to 64¼c, March 65½c, May 65¾c to 65⅞c. Corn was ⅛ to ½ cent off, September 50½c, Dec. 48½c to 48⅝c, March 49¾c, May 50¼c to 50¾c.

Trade in oats was almost stagnant. The close was unchanged to ⅛ cent up. Price movements in rye were inconsequental and the close was unchanged to ⅜ cent up. Lard ruled steady.

SOME STOCKS UP TO OVER A POINT

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—This week's war conscious market ended today on a more cheerful note, with leading stocks pushing up fractions to more than a point.

Selected specialties, rubbers, mail orders, coppers and farm implements accounted for most of the improvement which followed yesterday's recovery. Steels, motors, rails and utilities, while finishing with modest advances on the whole, were none too buoyant.

Activity was a shade ahead of the previous Saturday, although numerous traders deserted Wall Street for an early start on the Labor day holiday. The stock exchange and other leading markets will be closed until next Tuesday.

Those who made their appearance in boardrooms displayed less apprehension over Europe's troubles and paid more attention to brighter domestic business prospects. The result was that the buying side was the more popular from the start.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up .5 of a point at 49, although some profit taking near the close clipped down top marks in many instances. In the face of earlier slumping sessions, the composite was only off .1 of a point on the week.

Transfers for the two hours amounted to 357,390 shares compared with 350,700 a week ago. Volume slackened notably after the sharp break on Monday.

Prominent in the day's news were estimates that next week's steel and automotive production, notwithstanding the holiday, probably would step up another notch.

Talk of sterling devaluation, combined with continued uneasiness over the political situation abroad, pushed the British pound down to the lowest level in three years in terms of the dollar and continental currencies were relatively weak. Sterling ended off 1 cent at $4.84¼ and the French franc was soon down .00 ½ of a cent at 2.71⅝ cents. At the same time demand for gold in London brought another boost in the price of the yellow metal at this metropolis to a new peak since 1935.

Bonds exhibited strength in spots, but many loans were unable to make progress. Commodities were irregularly lower.

ANSWER TO CRANIUM CRACKER

Question on Comic Page

The first stop after the subbasement is the first floor, and the next is the second floor, as the mezzanine intervenes and is skipped. After that the elevator stops at all even floors going up, including the 30th floor, and also stops at the roof garden, as the problem stated that the elevator "goes to the roof."

Coming down from the roof, the even numbers the elevator stops at are 28, 22, 16, 10, and 4, and it then stops at the first floor, as it did going up.

Thus the elevator makes seven stops in all at the same places, counting the first floor and the roof.

BOOSTERS INTO CAMPAIGN FOR RAIL BUSINESS

Meeting In St. Louis To Inaugurate It For Missouri Pacific

Aroused by the decline in the volume of rail carried traffic, and a resultant decrease in railroad employment, members of scores of Booster clubs plan an energetic "Sell the Railroad" campaign this month, according to P. R. Nichols, chief booster of the Sedalia club.

Mr. Nichols returned Friday from St. Louis where he attended a two day meeting of chief boosters from all of the principal points on the Missouri Pacific system, at which there was a general discussion of the railroad situation and of plans for overcoming the increasing use of competitive forms of transportation G. T. Callender, superintendent of the shops attended the Wednesday meeting.

At a noon day luncheon Wednesday in the Crystal room of the Jefferson Hotel, L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific, delivered an address to the chief boosters and the staff officers of the Missouri Pacific railroad who held their regular meeting on that date. Several hundred members of the Missouri Pacific personnel were present.

Mr. Baldwin briefly summarized the situation when he said that all the railroads want or need is the right to do business as a business, and to be permitted to meet competition on equal terms. "As railroads we have decided that a united effort to bring that about will do much to revive the railroad industry, increase employment and increase railroad spending," Mr. Baldwin concluded.

.... Campaign Under Way ....

The campaign in Sedalia is already under way and club officials are anticipating excellent results. The splendid cooperation shown by members of the Sedalia shops Booster Club in this activity indicates that interest is at a high pitch. Commenting on the business solicitation drive and the meeting in St. Louis, Mr. Nichols, chief booster, had this to say:

"We know that trucks are not paying their full share of the cost of building and maintaining highways, and that waterway transportation is heavily subsidized by public funds.

"It was the opinion at the meeting that in every community there are many persons who make use of competitive forms of transportation who would use rail service instead if they realized that what helps the railroads helps them either directly or indirectly."

"We hope by our campaign," Mr. Nichols said, "to impress upon the public that the country needs the railroads, that the railroads cannot continue to give proper service, maintain present forces, keep up heavy tax payments and remain going concerns if they do not have a greater volumn of business, and that they cannot obtain a sufficient volume of business until the public puts a stop to subsidies and places all forms of transportation on an equal footing.

THIRD SUSPECT IN JOPLIN KIDNAPING

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 3.—Frank Bladl, 42, of Joplin, Mo., the third man charged with kidnaping J. B. Powell, of Blackwell, Okla., surrendered voluntarily today to the U. S. marshal here.

Bladl pleaded innocent before U. S. Commissioner W. P. Smith, who set bond at $25,000 and preliminary trial for Sept. 9.

Also charged in the alleged kidnaping are Claude Fleming, arrested recently at Joplin, and O. R. Hardy, Osage county, Okla., who appeared voluntarily.

Powell reported three men abducted him near Cedarville, Kas., last January and left him bound and blindfolded near Burbank, Okla.
